Broken Hearts at 6 Cents
They Found His Mummy
Speculation, Some Wild

By Arthur Brisbane

A NEW YORK legislator would make 6 cents a maximum allowance for breach of promise. The learned legislator remarked: "There ain't no broken heart in the world that's worth more than 6 cents."

The Albany solon forgets that today, as in the past, marriage is woman's only real business. A woman with her engagement broken is considered "second hand" by some foolish men. She does suffer actual financial damage. Besides, she ought to be paid something for listening to the foolish things that men say, and reading the asinine letters they write in their first fitful fever of infatuation.

They have opened Tutenkhamen's sealed tomb at last, and there found the sarcophagus of the Pharaoh, magnificent coffin in which the royal mummy was put so many centuries ago. X rays will explore the mummy and chart its bones, if still there.

It was a rich tomb, all the details of its contents you will read later. We study ancient remains for their historical value. In the Middle Ages ancient mummies were ground up, the powder put in medicines, supposed to cure various diseases. We have improved on that.

French francs fell down again yesterday and German money again went up. Exchange speculators have made a harvest, if they speculated the right way.

All railroads earned an average net profit of 4.40 per cent in 1922, an improvement of more than 33 per cent over 1921. Some money will be made in railroad speculation, also a lot lost. Look out.

There was wide speculation in sugar again. Mr. Hoover's Department of Commerce was kind enough to predict that the people this coming year would eat 700,000 tons more sugar than last year, and that the crop was short. That was all the speculators needed. Now the department says there will be a surplus of 476,000 tons. But that comes too late to check the boom. You will have the pleasure of paying for it. That's all the news about speculation and such things.

It may surprise you to read a statement made in the House of Commons by Philip Snowden, a man well informed. He declares that while her government is poor, nominally bankrupt (for the reason that she dare not tax her citizens, peasants especially), France is actually the richest nation in the world. Her net savings and the recovery of her exports are the foundation of her extraordinary prosperity.

The English, having arranged to [illegible] now want the French to [illegible] them. That won't be easily arranged.

Tchitcherin, who manages foreign affairs for Russia and seems to know well, says there is no war coming in Europe immediately. It takes money to go to war, as it takes to [illegible] any other kind of a [illegible]. Europe has got to collect herself and collect some money before she will be ready for fresh fighting, so say he and others. Tchitcherin was described by Lloyd George as "the demon of [illegible] of Europe's international [illegible]." You can't be quite sure [illegible] means.

There may not be war, but some [illegible] predict violent outbreaks against the French in Germany any moment. If they [illegible] will be ruthlessly and [illegible] suppressed. French of[illegible] that Germany is thoroughly disarmed. She has more [illegible] and more trained [illegible] than any nation in [illegible] without weapons [illegible] without weapons, [illegible] much when really [illegible] all guesswork as [illegible]

Monona Golf Club To Elect Officers Soon

[illegible] G. Mi[illegible], one of the [illegible] of the Monona Golf [illegible] announced today that a meeting of members of the club will be [illegible] to elect officers and directors.

Following the meeting the names of the members of the club will be announced.

Sabotage Increases, Is Report

Vice Mayor Of Essen And Industrial Heads Jailed And Fined

(By the Associated Press)

DUESSELDORF—Bomb throwing and serious cases of sabotage occurred in the Ruhr valley during the night. A bomb was thrown in a street in Essen near the Kaiserhof hotel, the French engineers' headquarters, where Chief Engineer Coste and 30 other civil engineers are lodged. No injuries resulted.

French Tighten Grip on Essen.
(By the Associated Press)

ESSEN—The French hold on Essen was tightened today in consequence of the shooting of two soldiers yesterday. Infantry occupied the police barracks throughout the night and members of the force were deprived of their weapons. The chief of police is under arrest.

The employes of the municipal electric works have decided to cut off Essen's supply of electricity as a result of the imposition of the fine of five million marks on Director Buszmann of the plant.

Ober-Burgomaster Havenstein of Oberhausen, Vice Lord Mayor Schaefer of Essen and Herr Buszmann have been punished by court martial for violating French orders.

Havenstein was sentenced to three years' imprisonment on the charge of cutting off the supplies of electricity upon arrival of the French in Oberhausen. Schaefer testified that it had been impossible for him to carry out technically the French orders which imposed upon him the task of furnishing motor transportation and fuel. He received a two year jail sentence and was fined 10,000,000 marks. Buszmann was fined 5,000,000 marks on charge of interfering with supply of electricity in the Kaiserhof hotel, the French headquarters.

Five hundred thousand children are to be sent out of the occupied territory by the Brandenburg people's alliance.

Gisholt Home Gutted by Flames

Superintendent's home at Gisholt Farm —By Staff Photographer

DAMAGE which is estimated at $25,000 was done yesterday at the Gisholt Home for the Aged farm, six miles east of Madison on the Sun Prairie road, when fire of unknown origin nearly destroyed the superintendent's home.

The blaze lasted for more than two hours, gutting the entire interior of the building. Situated on the top of a hill where winds found full play, the volunteer firemen could not combat the flames. There was no water supply for city firemen to work.

Ex-Detective Arrested For Criminal Libel

Bailin Held On Warrant Taken By Burns Agency; Follows Confession

(By the Associated Press)

CHICAGO—Albert Bailin, alias Balanow, confessed labor and radical spy, was arrested today charged with criminal libel as a result of his sworn testimony in a deposition being taken by Frank P. Walsh, for use in the defense of 22 communists at St. Joseph, Mich., Feb. 26. Albert O. Myers, assistant general manager of the Burns' Detective agency, obtained the warrant. He charged Balanow with libel because of his testimony that Myers in 1920 ordered him to go to the office of the Thiel Agency, a rival organization, and write a threatening letter to the postmaster of New York on a Thiel typewriter.

Holds Rubber Stamp on State Checks is Legal

Sol Levitan, state treasurer, can sign has thousands of checks with a rubber stamp, if he so desires, R. M. Hoyt, deputy attorney general, advised him today. He said that the supreme court had held that rubber stamp signatures were in writing, and consequently legal.

"In case losses should arise, however, through carelessness in permitting the rubber stamp to become assessible to unauthorized persons or through use of forged stamps, a liability might arise upon your bona as state treasurer," Mr. Hoyt held. "That is a matter of policy for the treasurer to decide."

Justo's Grave Held Open As Relatives Await Arrival of Son From Prison at Waupun

The grave of Joseph Justo, 38, who was buried yesterday morning at Holy Cross cemetery, is still open today while friends and relatives of the murdered man await the arrival of Domonic, his 17-year old son, who is serving a five year sentence at Waupun for bank robbery.

Dominic was expected to arrive here in time for the funeral yesterday morning, but was delayed by train service.

Little Joseph, Jr., 15, who is serving a sentence at the Waukesha Industrial school for highway robbery, was in attendance at the last rites yesterday at the St. Joseph Italian Catholic church, S. Park street.

The grave will remain open until the arrival of the elder son, according to Otto Schroeder, undertaker, in charge. The boy is expected to arrive some time today under guard from the state prison.

$153,000 In Stolen Bonds Are Recovered

Part Of Denver Loot And Ohio Holdings Found In Cincinnati

(By the Associated Press)

CINCINNATI, O.—Recovery of $73,000 worth of bonds, part of $265,000 stolen in a hold-up by bandits from the Hamilton County bank here last September, and $80,000 in unusel federal reserve bank currency stolen in the hold-up of the Denver mint was revealed today by federal officers and private detectives.

This recovery was the result of the matching of wits by E. H. Matthews, president of the Hamilton county bank, with a band of crooks who were trying to dispose of stolen securities, the total face value of which is believed to be about a million dollars.

The story is one of long and delicate negotiations with an agent of the band of crooks, in which suspicion had to be avoided and utmost secrecy observed. The final "negotiations" were consummated in Minneapolis.

It was said today that arrests of several members of the "syndicate" that has been trying to sell securities that were the plunder of half a dozen sensational robberies, would be made soon.

Abolition Of Guard Will Fail

—GOV. BLAINE

Is In Favor Of Reduced Appropriation, He Tells Labor Body

Governor Blaine yesterday declared the bill abolishing the Wisconsin national guard would not pass the legislature and argued in favor of retaining the guard, Frank Metcalf, Milwaukee, reported to the legislative conference of the Wisconsin State Federation of Labor at its concluding session here late yesterday afternoon after a conference with the governor.

Following Metcalf's report, the labor conference adopted a motion instructing its legislative committee to urge members of the legislature to vote against any appropriation for the national guard in case the bill passes. This would prevent the guard from continuing.

Governor Blaine declared in favor of a reduced appropriation for maintaining the guard. If the guard is abolished, he said, it would be necessary for the federal government to send the United States army into the state in case of trouble.

Charge Fraud Used

Burgess Battery Files Suit To Gain Canadian Rights To Patents

Legal battle for Canadian patent rights to an electrical machine was opened in Superior court today when the Burgess Battery Co. filed complaint against Lorenz Maisel and J. C. Ford, charging them with conspiracy to defraud.

The battery company alleges that Maisel while employed by them for experimental work in perfecting a method of producing drawn zinc cans for battery electrodes in dry cell manufacture, attempted to swindle them by breaching a contract to give the company exclusive world rights to the process. Maisel is alleged to have sold a one half interest in the Canamian rights to Mr. Ford and to have attempted to realize on those rights after agreeing to sign them over to the local firm.

Charge Bank Rivalry Cause Of Pool Case

Milwaukee Attorney Says Tobacco Injunction Is Personal Affair

That the rivalry of two banks in Westby may have been a factor in the action of the Northern Wisconsin Tobacco pool against M. H. Bekkedal and his son, was the charge of Attorney M. K. Whyte, of the firm of Glicksman, Gold and Corrigan, Milwaukee, representing Bekkedal, at the adverse hearing of officials of the pool this morning in the hearing room of the capitol before Circuit Court Commissioner Rufus B. Smith.

Emerson Ela, counsel for the pool, declared that the action was brought by the pool as a corporation and not by Jens Davidson. Mr. Davidson and Mr. Bekkedal are officers of rival banks at Westby.

Files of contracts and records, and books of the pool were brought into the hearing room this morning at the request of Bekkedal's counsel. Mr. Whyte, in grilling Davidson, president of the pool, and A. C. Johnson, secretary-ereasurer, attempted to secure data relative to the total acreage represented in contracts secured by the pool from tobacco growers, prior to June 30, 1922, at which time the pool claims to have secured contracts covering 75 per cent of the tobacco acreage of 1920. The pool, according to plans made at the time, was to come into official existence when that acreage had been represented in contracts.

Clashes between counsel of both sides were numerous, when Attorney Ela objected to questions of attorney Whyte relative to the personal business of the two officers.

All of the contracts secured by the pool are being numbered by the court reporter upon the request of counsel for Bekkedal that all matter be marked for identification. The work is expected to take several hours.

C. W. Graves, Viroqua attorney, is associated with the Milwaukee law firm in defending Gekkedal.

Follows Holdup At Nakoma

Masked Men Lock Up W. L. Clement In Closet; Escape In Auto

The break up of the gang of hold-up men and safe crackers that have been terrorizing Dane county for the past four months with their repeated depredations was in sight late this afternoon when police arrested four young Cross Plains men who are rooming in Madison.

One of the men is said to have confessed to being a member of the gang and is said to have given police information which will break up the band. Police were still searching for another member of the band late this afternoon.

The men being questioned are of ages ranging from 19 to 25 years old.

With the break up of this band police will have ended the depredations of one of the boldest gang that has worked in and out of Madison in the past several years.

During the last four months this gang has "pulled" more than 15 "pobs" and in every case eluded arrest and identivcation.

The Nakoma Trading Post, Nakoma, was robbed of $75 in cash by armed highwaymen at 8:30 last night when two bandits after shoving W. L. Clement, proprietor of the store, in a darkened closet, made their escape in a Ford coupe, thought to be the one stolen from S. E. Blake on Monona avenue, about 7:30.

The two bandits, one of whom was masked, entered the store at 8:30 while the owner's back was turned. Ordering Clement to throw up his hands and back into a rear corner of the store, the two men rifled the till of the day's receipts and then put the owner in a closet, admonishing him to remain there until they had made a safe getaway.

A 22 calibre rifle which was standing in the closet was taken out by the two bandits before they left the storekeeper.

Cyril Marks, an attorney who lives near the store in the suburban district, stated today that he had seen the Ford coupe standing near the store a few minutes before the robbery, but had thought nothing of it. Apparently the men were waiting for the last customer to leave the store before they entered. The store is situated in a somewhat lonely section of Nakoma.

Both men were armed, according to Clement's report to Sheriff Julius Krug today.

The shorter of the two men was 5 feet 6 inches tall and of stocky build. He wore his cap pulled down over his face. The other man was six inches taller and wore a white handkerchief over his face. It is not believed that a third man was waiting in the car outside. Police are convinced that these bandits are the same ones that have been working in and about Madison for the last three months or more.

South Madison Will Annex Or Incorporate

Whether South Madison becomes a separate municipality or whether it will be a part of the city of Madison will be optional with the city it was said today by members of the South Madison Development association. A meeting will be called early next week at which incorporation of the suburb as a separate unit will be discussed. The association will first endeavor to have South Madison annexed to the city but should this fail, incorporation will be effected.

Removes "Lump" from Stomach

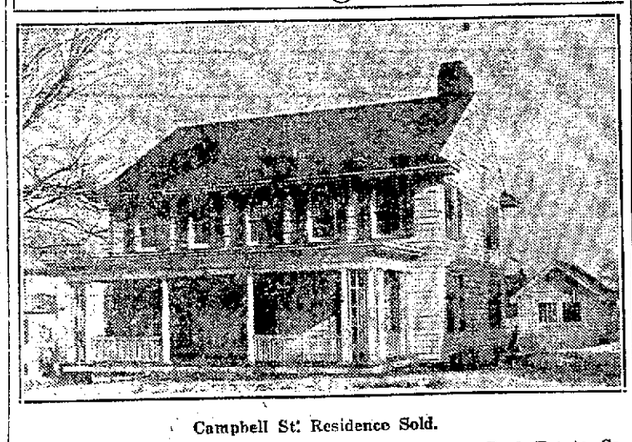

Ever feel as if you had a lump in the pit of your stomach, causing a burning sensation, sour taste, heart palpitation, shortness of breath, bloating or other disagreeable effects? These are some of the most common symptoms of excessive gas resulting from a nervous stomach.

Many people say this "lump" feels like a ball of molten iron, while others claim that it is more like a rock. Of course, it isn't a lump at all, but merely an accumulation of gas in the stomach pressing against the heart or other organs.

By taking Baalmann's Gas Tablets before and after meals, you can prevent distress from gas and aid in correcting the nervous condition responsible for the trouble.

You'll find Baalmann's Gas Tablets on sale at Menges Pharmacies Co. Price, one dollar. Look for the yellow package. J. Baalmann, Chemist, San Francisco.—Adv.

Labor Opposed To Dance Bill Wiping Out Regents; Blaine Appointments Are Criticised

Secretary J. J. Handly of the Wisconsin Federation of Labor and several other speakers declared their opposition to the Dahl bill providing for consolidation of the educational boards at the conference of labor leaders here Friday. Mr. Handly said:

"Our present system is more democratic and is more likely to secure for us farmer-labor representation. The appointments that have recently been made on our board of regents have not given us any real representation. The governor's appointments have been disappointing to labor."

Frank Metcalf of Milwaukee and Henry Ohl, the chairman, of the conference, were among those who spoke against consolidation.

Glenn P. Turner said that in England the part time schools had been abandoned because vocational education came under the control of the other educational authorities. The part time schools should be kept separate and apart by themselves in their management as Dr. Charles McCarthy so often emphasized. Our board of normal regents are almost completely controlled by the presidents of the normal schools. The normal regents never hold a meeting except when the presidents of all our normal schools meet with them, and the regents are merely the mouth pieces of the heads of the different schools, Turner said.

By a unanimous vote the conference went on record as opposed to the Dahl bill.

Control Goes With Land

"I believe with Lincoln that the rights of capital are prior to those of capital and deserve a greater consideration," said Lieut. Gov. Comings in addressing the Legislative Labor Conference Friday afternoon.

The lieutenant-governor was given a cordial reception, and his remarks were punctured with frequent applause. He said:

"The labor movement began in England about 115 years ago in an effort to check the evils of child labor. About the same time the public school system was founded in America. Both movements were heralded as revolutionary. They were opposed by the well-to-do, by the bankers, and by the ministers and the churches.

"I would rather lift up the masses an inch or two than to push up the many a long distance.

"The people who control the land of any country control the people upon it, to a great extent and can therefore reduce them to slavery.

"Those who control the machinery of a country also exercise an undue control over the people."

On Tax Exempt Securities

The conference endorsed unanimously the bill of Assemblyman Anton M. Miller which calls for a $1500 exemption on homestead improvements.

Senator Schulz of Milwaukee was inclined to question the resolutions regarding tax-exempt securities, but finally both were unanimously adopted. One resolution asked Wisconsin U. S. senators to oppose the house joint resolutions repealing the exemption of taxes on public bonds, and the other resolution asked Wisconsin Wisconsin state senators to oppose the Caldwell resolution asking United States Senate to pass the resolution for the repeal of the tax exemptions of public bonds.

The conference adopted a resolution declaring its opposition to Thomas A. Engel as a candidate for appointment as a deputy U. S. marshal.

A resolution was passed in favor of a law permitting cities of the first class to pay employes extra wages for over time, and to grant officials vacations without loss of salaries.

The conference finished its work at 5:30 p. m. Friday and adjourned.

WEATHER MAN EXPLAINS FLAG CODE AND TELLS MANY SECRETS

Something to worry about. How many flags are worn out by the Weather bureau? The flags don't last forever in spite of their appearance of being relics of the battlefields. The weather man says a flag lasts only a couple of months although they are taken in every night.

The fair-weather flag is the hardest hit because it is used every day, indicating fair, cloudy or partly cloudy, anything except precipitation. It doesn't necessarily mean sunshine, as some people believe, the weather man explains. It makes the weather man rave when a professor on the hill calls up and tells him to take in his flag out of the rain.

Deauville scarves have nothing on weather flags when it comes to color and variety. Besides the white flag there is a blue one for rain or snow. A flag half white and half blue denotes local rain or snow and should warn co-eds to take umbrellas or buckle their goloshes.

A triangular black pennant indicates a sudden change in temperature. The cold wave flag, in evidence atop North hall Wednesday, is white with a black square in it.

The weather man gives us to understand that his flags forecast the day they are up and not for the day after. That's why he is the most abused mortal on earth. People don't understand him. They keep him busy calling up to find out what kind of weather we're going to have. He says he gets most of his calls from the curious.

Farmers, the ones who make most use of the weather bureau and seldom have time to telephone for weather reports, get their information through reports sent out to towns in the vicinity. The farmer has more need of the bureau in the summer months.

Radio is now the answer to this need. Every day the bureau sends out information to the university broadcasting station and to the Northwestern Radio company who broadcast all reports.

Shippers are the ones who bless the weather man just now. He sends out a shippers' forecast something like this: protect 36-hour shipments against temperatures. North and West, 20 below; South and East, 10 below.

Back Bad Since the Grip

DOES your back ache day after day with a dull, unceasing throb? Are you tired, worn-out, and discouraged—just about ready to "give up"? Then why put up with such needless suffering? Why not look to your kidneys, which are so likely at fault? Chances are a cold, a chill, or a strain has weakened your kidneys. Poisons have accumulated in the system, that well kidneys would have filtered off. It's little wonder, then, you have that constant backache, those headaches, dizzy spells, and sharp, rheumatic twinges. You may have annoying bladder irregularities, too, and feel nervous, "blue" and irritable. Don't wait until serious or chronic kidney disease sets in. Get back your health while you can. Use Doan's Kidney Pills. Doan's have helped thousands. They should help you. Ask your neighbor!

Read How These Madison Folks Found Relief:

Mrs. James McIlwee, 2038 E. Main St., says: "My kidneys became disordered and my back gave me trouble. I suffered from sharp, stinging pains, which shot through me when I moved quickly. At times dizzy spells came over me when black specks would float before my eyes. My kidneys were weak and I was run down in general. After taking Doan's Kidney Pills, I got great relief and the trouble disappeared."

Herman Knabe, 1321 E. Wilson St., says: "Moulding work in the foundry strained my back. My kidneys were weak and acted too freely so I had to get up several times at night. My back felt cramped and a sudden move brought on sharp, piercing pains. There was a dull ache across my kidneys and I could hardly sleep. Mornings I was lame and stiff. A fellow workman advised Doan's Kidney Pills and they cured me completely."

J. E. Cox, 832 E. Washington Ave., says: "I suffered from kidney trouble. Often sharp pains shot through me when I moved and when I sat for any length of time I got so cramped I could hardly get out of a chair. When these spells came on I suffered from my kidneys acting too freely and the secretions passed with a burning sensation. I always get Doan's Kidney Pills when bothered this way and they immediately relieve me of the trouble."

A meeting to boost the local mail carriers' Saturday half holiday was held at the Association of Commerce offices. It was well attended by the local force. The conference was held between the carriers, postmaster and superintendents to come to some agreement on granting half holidays to the carriers during the year.

The plan has been favorably received by the postal authorities at Washington who stated that it will be left in the hands of the various postmasters to be worked out without delaying the mails. The local carriers decided to leave the decision with mail receivers in the form of balloting. Since the campaign has been launched very few objections have been received by Postmaster W. A. Devine.

Big Hearings On Big Bills Up Next Week

Taxation And Unemployment Measures Will Be Heard, Others Too

Taxation will be the chief attraction of committee hearings before legislative committees during the coming week.

The two general tax bills before the legislature, one by Speaker Dahl and the other by Senator H. J. Severson, are both before the joint committee on finance and the assembly tax committee, meeting in joint session Wednesday afternoon. These two sweeping income tax measures, intended to raise from $12,000,000 to $16,000,000 out of income in the state, are expected to meet opposition from the big interests of the state.

Hearing will be commenced on Wednesday, and it is thought, will then be continued to a later date if unable to hear all appearances for and against the proposals. Delegations will probably be present representing industrial and agricultural interests.

On Tuesday, the Huber unemployment insurance bill is before the senate committee on judiciary This measure having a vital effect upon industry in the state, will attract another big hearing and likewise is expected to draw fire from the manufacturing organizations of Wisconsin.

The Ku Klux Klan will have its day in the legislature Tuesday, when two bills affecting its membership are up for consideration. One measure by Senator Titus and the other by Senator Gettelman, both require the Klan along with other secret organizations, excepting labor unions and farmers' mutuals, to file lists of their membership with the secretary of state and county clerks. Heavy penalties for failure to comply with the provisions of the statutes are provided.

Assemblyman Duncan's resolution prohibiting candidates for president and vice president from receiving campaign contributions from foreign governments is before the Assembly elections committee on Feb. 20.

Hearing on the memorial to congress of Senator O. H. Johnson, calling for action to make possible a Great Lakes to the St. Lawrence waterway, will be held by the senate state affairs committee on Feb. 21. This committee on the same day hears the Teasdale bill to prohibit minors under 16 years of age from attending motion pictures unless the picture shown has been censored by the National Board of Review.

The bill of Assemblyman Koch, requiring that pedestrians walking on highways keep to the left of the road, will be heard by the joint committee on highways Feb. 21. The committee at that time will also hear the Laffey bill requiring that all drivers of motor vehicles be licensed.

A continued hearing on the Cashman bill prohibiting use of histories which defame Revolutionary War heroes will be held on Tuesday before the senate committee on education and public welfare.

The Benfey bill limiting the activity of chiropractors in Wisconsin is up for hearing before the same committee that afternoon.

Hearing on the Freehoff bill to reapportion taxes received from terminal grain elevators is up for February 20 before the assembly taxation committee.

Auto Weight Basis of New Highway Tax

Measure Expected To Raise 8 Millions Annually Is Framed

The general highway tax bill, estimated to raise $8,000,000 annually by a graduated license fee based upon automobile weight is prepared for introduction, and will be brought into the legisalture next week by the joint highway committee, Senator George Staudenmayer, chairman, announced today.

This measure contains no provision for any other than a sharply graduated license fee based upon weight. When the proposal gets to the floor a substitute amendment will be offered, reducing the fees based upon weight and establishing a gasoline tax of two cents a gallon. County board chairmen meeting here assured trat when they went on record unanimously as favoring the gas tax as the most equitable means of raising funds for highway construction.

The revised weight license schedule contained in the new highway bill, favorable to the administration, follows:

Car weight in lbs	Fee
Less than 1600	$10.00
16 to 1800	11.50
1800 to 200	13.00
2000 to 2400	17.00
2400 to 2800	22.00
3200 to 3600	3400
3600 to 4000	38.00
4000 to 4500	43.00
4500 to 5000	48.00
Over 5000	50.00

Motor truck fees under the committee bill are graduated sharply on the weight basis. Triple fees will be charged passenger carrying busses, with the true weight charge as a basis.

Following is the schedule of truck charges:

Weight in Tons	Fee
Less than 1½	$10.00
1½ to 2¼	15.00
2 ¼ to 3	20.00
3 to 4	30.00
4 to 5	45.00
5 to 6	65.00
6 to 7	85.00
7 to 8	105.00
8 to 9	125.00
9 to 10	145.00
10 to 11	165.00
11 to 12	185.00
Motor Busses—

Triple the fees of motor trucks of the same gross weight.

Conference on Religion Will Ignore Faiths

Leaders Of U. W. Conference Says No "Revival" Will Be Staged

The entire university will respond to the All-University Religious conference, March 2 to 4, if plans are carried out as proposed, according to an announcement given out last night by Worth Schoults '23, general chairman of the conference,

In his statement Schoults stressed the point that the important part of the title is the word "all," for it is this which makes it cover the school as a whole.

On Friday afternoon of the conference week, all classes will be missed for the first address of Dr. John R. Mott, the conference speaker. This is the first all-university convocation that has been called this year for any purpose, except for the Freshman welcome.

"The fact that the authorities have permitted a university convocation with classes dismissed is an added proof of the universality of the conference," Schoults declared last night.

The conference shows absolutely no partiality in matters of religions or faiths, according to conference officials. All nationalities and beliefs are represented on the organizing committees which are planning for the week-end.

University men have expressed themselves as believing that Dr. Mott, who will address all the meetings, is perhaps the most outstanding leader of religious thought in America today.

Mott is also recognized as being politically prominent. At one time he was named by President Wilson to be minister to China, but he declined.

Minstrel Is Nemesis To Capital Rum

Dry Sleuth Disguised As Violinist Causes Big Raid Today

(By the Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Police and prohibition enforcement officers today launched their second city-wide liquor cleanup since the beginning of February.

Armed with 50 warrants they began before noon a series of raids which reached into every section of the capital and which filled up rapidly all available dentention space at several station houses.

As in the series of 60 raids conducted Feb. 2, evidence was given the revenue agents and police by J. L. Asher, revenue agent from Kentucky. Asher travelled the rounds of the capital under-world this time in the guise of a wandering minstrel, playing his way into the hearts of his victims on a violin.

Can Set World In Order Says Maude Royden

Spiritual Energy Fills Our World, Declares English Woman Here

"Can We Set the World in Order?" "Yes", emphatically proclaimed Miss Maude Royden before an audience of 1700, which packed Lathrop hall last night in order to hear the answer of this prominent English "preacher, orator, author, and leader in social service," as President Birge introduced her.

"The world today is filled with spiritual energy. We cannot make a new world out of combined hatreds. It is a spiritual law, and a spiritual law is never broken. Dodge, evade, or defy this spiritual law, and spiritual power will defy us.

"Once we abandon the childish idea that we cannot break a spiritual law, we shall find ourselves the master of powers like those of Christ himself. We must take over from our science to our theology the knowledge that God is the unbreakable law. Then and only then can we lift humanity out its utter darkness. Then and only then can we set the world in order."

The chaotic, convulsive disorder of Europe, is the nervous emotional exhaustion of a despairing country that has staked its everything into the war. This is Miss Royden's personal reaction.

"Europe has been intellectually and spiritually decapitulated. Today there is a pitiful sense of helplessness about it. Religiously there are no great leaders. Politically there is no individual strong enough to set the world aright. European leaders seem rather to watch than to direct. But there is a solution.

"The American man can make of the world what he will. This world is surging with a magic torrent of energy that is passing by practically unused. Order must grow from the magnificient capacity of man not only to adapt himself to the world, but to adapt the world to himself. Scientists have learned that all the power in the world is subject to universal law."

The subjection of spiritual energy to universial law is equally complete.

"Man is paralyzed by the conception of the spiritual world. What can the world be but a reflection of the mind of God? The politician is paralyzed because he has no belief in universal law. The brain, the intellect of man, makes the gigantic energy of the world the servant of humanity."

The weighty power of the doctrine of brotherly love is Miss Royden's prescription for world order.

"Has any country ever put God first? Every single nation is ngaing for its own interests. The world is drenched in blood because we do not believe in spiritual law. The fundamental doctrine of law is in itself a creative power. Europe dies for a little more creative love which alone can make a new civilization."

Lack Of Mayoralty Race Causes Little Interest In Primary

Little spirit is evidenced so far for the municipal election, the primary for which will be held March 20. Onn olyeo ETA ET ET ETET 20. Only one of the retiring 10 aldermen has signified his intention of running for reelection so far. Roy H. Proctor senior member of the council from the fifth ward seeks reelection. Ald. John Stock, Jr., seventh ward, and Asa B. Groves, first ward, have signified their intention that they will not re-enter the aldermanic list this spring.

Nomination blanks have been sent to all the retiring aldermen by City Clerk Harry Buser but so far none have been returned. No prospective candidates to fill the vacancies created by the retirement of Alderman Stock and Groves have been announced.

The aldermen whose terms expire this spring are: Ald. Asa B. Groves, first ward; E. F. Gibbs, second; M. W. Comeford, third; D. C. Sullivan, fourth; Roy H. Proctor, fifth; Ruthwin F. Elver, sixth; John Stock, seventh; Patrcik H. Marry, eighth; Thomas Quinn, ninth; Joseph H. Brown, tenth. So fur it has been rumored in city hall circles that all will again run for the office except those who have so far signified their intention otherwise.

TAILORED FROCKS FOR SPRING ARE OF HEAVY CREPES

Both youth and charm are combined in this prettily tailored dress for school or business wear. It is made of a heavy brown rosmanara crepe bound with tan. The slashed sleeves are faced with the tan and the vestee is tan. A narrow mannish belt marks a low waistline.

Is Nemesis of Bootleggers

Dorothy Hattersley.

TOLEDO, O., — There's a very ordinary little town near here with a Main Street, a corner general store-postoffice and a town pump.

Years back the sturdy village fathers christened it Waterville.

But somehow it never sprouted forth as do the onions on Mike Peer's famous onion farms near Lorain.

That is it never did until Dorothy Hattersley, twenty and the prettiest "special constable" in Ohio, bored by the humdrum life of the village, started out on a search for excitement.

She decided that there was still adventure in the village and if in no other way she'd find it seeking stills. So she turned "still hunter."

And so far in addition to considerable excitement she's found that though Waterville may not be the hub of the hootch making industry it's a member in good standing of the Moonshine Monopoly.

As a result of her operations hootch prices have jumped, production has slumped and Dorothy's craving for excitement has been appeased.

Farmers Wihout Equipment Can't Compete With Ones Who Have Says Tractor Expert

"The farmer who doesn't invest in up-to-date farm machinery can't begin to compete with the farmer who does invest in the modern implements with which to till the soil," Friday P. Mount, Chicago, president of the Advance-Rumely Co., told 175 farmers and Advance-Rumely agents, salesmen and friends at the annual tractor school banquet held at the Park hotel Friday night.

"Statistics show that the cost of raising a bushel of wheat ranges from 67 cents to $5," Mount said, "and the farmer who raises his wheat at the cost of 67 cents is the one who has modern farm machinery.

"The success a man has on the farm depends wholly on the ability of that man to cut down the cost of production," he said.

Because of the depression period the nation has gone through American farmers are a billion dollars behind their purchases of farm implements, according to Mount. This figure is based on the purchases of other years.

Mount praised the Wisconsin farmer, saying that the Badgers have made more progress in making the farm "food factories" than any other state in the west.

"The farmer can't wait for reasonable requirements such as these any longer and now that business conditions are getting back to where we all like to see them the farmer will buy," Mount predicted.

Mount stated that farm machinery is just as necessary as the land itself. To stress this point he talked of conditions in Russia where there is just as much land as always, the population is just as large—but there is as hortage of farm machinery with which to till the land.

There are over 8,000,000 acres of farm land in America, according to Mount, but there is less than one-third of it under cultivation.

B. B. Clark, editor of The American Thresherman, praised the tractor school and the work it is doing toward bringing the men together.

August M. Frish, branch manager of the Advance-Rumely Co., in Madison who assembled the 170 men together for the school told of the benefits he derived from the lessons taught during the week.

Other "two minute men" were T. A. Coleman, president of the Madison Kipp; Frank Shephard, Rockford, Ill., salesman; Peter Heiser, Marshfield, salesman; Joseph Frish, former Advance-Rumely dealer; Charles Wonn, highway commissioner of Iowa county; Charles Tobin, Galena, Ill., dealer nad Gilbert Albright, Monroe dealer.

Sugar Price Steady

Housewives Boycott Holders of "Corner," Grocers Report Here

Madison housewives are heeding the warning of local grocers to "cut down" on sugar, according to W. M. Brady, grocer.

"People are buying just a few pounds at a time today following the notices in the newspapers to help break the rise in prices by using less sugar," Mr. Brady said.

No further advance in sugar prices was reported this morning.

The closing of the refineries has enabled the circulators to corner the available supply, in the opinion of Mr. Brady, but he feels confident that cooperation of grocers and customers will halt the rise and bring prices back to normal.

Wife Charges Abuse In Answer To Divorce Suit

Charges that her husband refused to buy her one article of clothing and that he physically abused her, are made by Caterina Maestrello in her answer and counter claim to her husband's complaint for divorce, which was filed in circuit court here today. Mrs. Maestrello further charges that her husband became so abusive after their marriage that she had to have him arrested on charges of assault and battery. The divorce suit was opened in circuit court before Judge E. Ray Stevens three weeks ago, but was postponed for several weeks because of the illness of Mrs. Mastrello.

Loosen Up That Cold With Musterole

Have Musterole handy when a cold starts. It has all of the advantages of grandmother's mustard plaster WITHOUT the blister. You just apply it with the fingers. First you feel a warm tingle as the healing ointment penetrates the pores, then comes a soothing, cooling sensation and quick relief.

Made of pure oil of mustard and other simple ingredients, Musterole is recommended by many nurses and doctors. Try Musterole for bronchitis, sore throat, stiff neck, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, croup, asthma, neuralgia, congestion, pains and aches of the back or joints, sore muscles, sprains, bruises, chilblains, frosted feet, colds of the chest. It may prevent pneumonia and "flu." 35c and 65c, jars and tubes.

20 High School Teams to Enter Stock Tourney

Elimination Contests Being Held Now In Various Districts

By PEGGY WALKER (School Editor)

Twenty high school teams will [illegible] enter the state high school stock judging tournament that will be held at the College of Agriculture next Friday.

Elimination contests are being held in various districts. The winning team in each district becomes eligible to enter the state contest. Teams already planning to come are: Oregon, Janesville, Ithaca, Soldiers Grove, Montford, Neenah, Oshkosh, Holman and Barron.

To the team winning the contest a pennant will be awarded by the Wisconsin Live Stock Breeders' association.

Preparations are under way by the College of Agriculture for the entertainment of the teams during their stay in Madison. A winter farm festival will be held.

Invitations have been sent to practically all of the high schools in southern Wisconsin inviting the students to attend the festival. Guides will meet the trains and conduct the visitors through the 18 departments of the College of Agriculture where exhibits and demonstrations will be held.

Special rates have been secured on the railroads leading into the city. Accommodations will be made for those who will remain over night.

Saturday morning demonstrations will be held followed by the showing of the university herd in the afternoon by agricultural students. The Little International Live Stock show will be held in the evening.

Send It In!

Send it in! That little sonnet
That you've got beneath your bonnet,
Or that bit of timely news about your school.
If it's funny, even better!
Write the editor a letter;
You will find her glad to print it, as a rule.
If you want to keep her happy
Make your items short and snappy—
Send a dozen to her every day or so;
Let folks know you're school's a "whiz!"
Come on—prove it, if it is—
Are you ready, girls and boys? Get set! Let's go!

John Ralph is Prize Winner At Vocational

Chooses "The Industrial" As Name For New Monthly Paper

John Ralph, elevator boy at the Madison Vocational school, designed the best mast head for the monthly paper of the school in a contest held in the commercial design class.

"The Industrial" is the title he selected. The paper made its first appearance February 5 with the following editorial staff: V. Remy, representing trades and industries; George Koellen, commercial department; Lilly Wall, Loyal Lassie club; Marie Keegan, alumni club; Leonard Heim, athletics.

The domestic science and other departments have not yet chosen their press representative.

Besides obtaining and writing the news the students will print the paper in the school shop. Quanty rather than quantity seems to be the aim of the paper according to the material and style. C. E. Moe is the printing instructor.

An orchestra was organized at the school at the time of the Alumni club dance. Rehearsals are held Tuesday and Friday afternoons.

It is self supporting and composed of vocational people as follows: Lee J. Stam, violin, banjo; Ethel Fairclough, piano; Albert Freidlt, saxaphone; and George Koellen, drums.

The Loyal Lassie club is now composed of 80 members. Officers are president, Lois Kendall, and secretary and treasurer, Helen Slinger. Club meetings are held every other Tuesday. After the business sessions games are played and refreshments served. At the last meeting Miss Marjorie Upton of the Y. W. C. A. spoke.

Eat and Get Thin

This is turning an old phrase face about, but modern methods of reducing fat have made this revision possible.

If you are overfat and also averse to physical exertion; if you are likewise fond of the table and still want to reduce your excess flesh several pounds, do this: Go to your druggist (or write the Marmola Company, 4612 Woodward Avenue, Detroit, Mich.) and give him (or send them) one dollar. For this modest amount of money the druggist will put you in the way of satisfying your ambition for a nice, trim, slim figure. He will hand you a case of Marmola Prescription Tablets, (compounded in accordance with the Famous Marmola Prescription), one of which you must take after each meal and at bedtime until you begin to lose your fat steadily and easily. Then continue the treatment until your weight is what you desire. Marmola Prescription Tablets are not only harmless but really beneficial to the general health. You don't need starvation diet or weakening exercises. Just go on eating what you like, leave exercising to the athletes, but take your little tablet faithfully, and without a doubt that flabby flesh will quickly take unto itself wings, leaving behind it your natural self, neatly clothed in firm flesh and trim muscles.—Adv.

Outdoors and the skin —

Don't forego the pleasure of outdoor life because the sun and wind coarsen and roughen your skin. The regular use of Resinol Soap and Ointment is almost sure to offset these effects. Resinol Soap rids the pores of dust and oil, and Resinol Ointment soothes the chapped and roughened skin.

Sold by all druggists.

Fellowship of Prayer

Lenten Bible Reading and meditation prepared for Commission on Evangelism of Federal Council of Churches.

ASH WEDNESDAY

Jesus Ordained

"He saw ..... the Spirit as a dove descending upon him." Mark 1:10.

Read Mark 1:1-13.

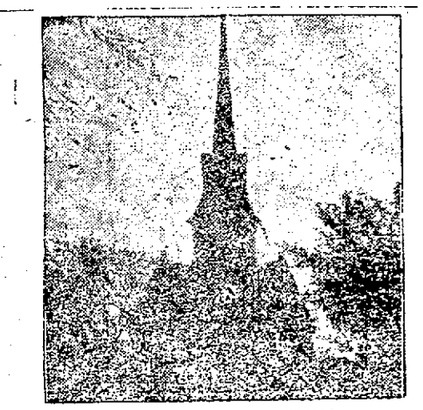

"The Gospels steadily hold the humanity of Jesus in the foreground. It is through his humanity we must make our way to him."

MEDITATION: What a momentous hour for the world, the hour when the Man of Galilee accepted his commission! In that hour his ministry began which has made and is making the world new.

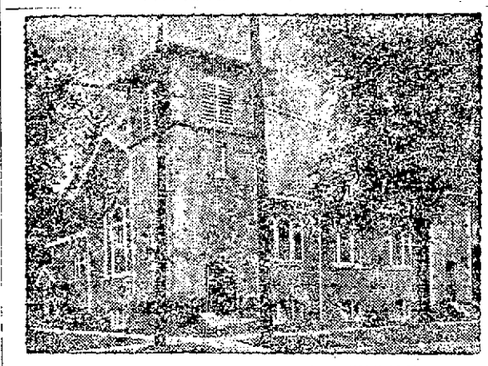

HYMN:

Immortal Love, forever full,
Forever flowing free,
Forever shared, forever whole,
A never-ebbing sea!

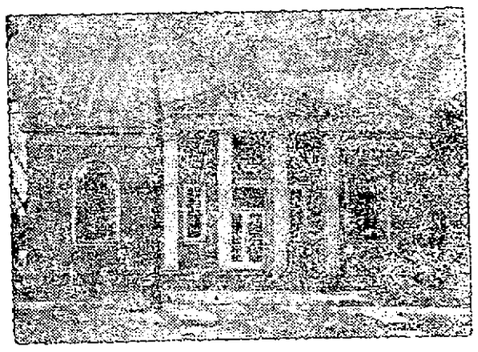

PRAYER. Almighty God, we thank thee for the life of Jesus Christ: that he lived his divine life among men, ministering to their needs and showing them the way of life. Open our eyes that we may see him; enlighten our understanding that we may know him, and strengthen our wills that we may follow him. Unite thy people in fellowship through prayer. May we be refreshed in the inner life, be purified by thy cleansing power and blessed by the indwelling of thy Holy Spirit; through Jesus Christ, our Lord. Amen.

Women's Legislative Committees Lead in Activities Here During the Lenten Season

Many Local Organizations Scan Public Welfare Bills

By ROWENA BROWN

RATHER than hemming in the legislative activities of the state the four wings of the capitol are serving as a point of departure for activities in the women's clubs of the city. During the Lenten season, while social life is more restrained, the sterner purposes of the organizations are becoming pre-eminent, and without exception the "legislative committee" in each society is the leading department.

The Clearing House committee, which meets every Monday afternoon in the capitol with Mrs. Harry Glicksman as chairman, is the congress of the representatives from each social organization. At [illegible] bills appearing in [illegible] of the legislature are [illegible] the recommendations of the committee are then carried [illegible] individual organizations.

WOMEN'S CLUB

[illegible] H. S. Richards, [illegible] of the law school in the university addressed the home economics department of the Woman's club on national legislation, while Mrs. [illegible] P. Cary and Mrs. Louis Kahl[illegible] members of the Clearing House committee, summarized the bills now appearing before the Wisconsin house.

The General Federation of Women's Clubs is a strictly non-partisan and non-sectarian organization, Mrs. Richards said, and is interested primarily in paving the way for better legislation not in inaugurating it. Its aim is to unite women in the attempt to lift economic, social, and moral legislation out of the realm of politics.

The Women's Joint Congressional committee, an organization composed of delegates from various [illegible] women's societies including the Woman's Club, has placed itself on record as favoring the following measures: an amendment to the national constitution providing for child labor legislation, uniform divorce laws, the inclusion of child welfare and a woman's bureau in the Department of Labor, and the protection of our national parks against the attacks of various commercial interests.

The [illegible] important measures before the Wisconsin Legislature regarding education, according to Mrs. Cary, are the reorganization of the state board of education and the board of normal school regents to include two farmers and two manual laborers, state aid for cities to establish classes for mentally deficient children, the question of making military drill in the university optional, the abolition of text books that cast derogatory reflections upon our national heroes, and the consolidation of rural schools.

Mrs. Kahlenberg reviewed these [illegible] as the most important [illegible] social legislation now under [illegible] the dance hall [illegible] the number of vocational school scholarships [illegible] 100 to 200, the [illegible] women, the inclusion of [illegible] under the eugenics law, [illegible] for counties in regard [illegible] employment of a visiting [illegible] the striking out of the [illegible] "feeble-minded" and "insane" [illegible] all institutions in [illegible] afflicted people are [illegible]

Charm School Is Offering Of Y.W.C.A.

Novel Instruction Seeks To Stress Personality Problem

BCAUSE the wiser generation has declared that the modern girl, when she won her freedom, her vitality and her skill, lost one of her chiefer attractions, her "charm," the local Y. W. C. A. has devised a novel manner of insuring the filling of that discrepancy. The "Charm School," recently inaugurated at the Y. W., bids fair to become the most popular course offered by the organization.

Local society matrons, well versed in the artistries of charm, are cooperating in presenting the course, Miss Frances Toy announced. The first of the lectures was presented on Thursday night a week ago by Mrs. H. J. Finch, who defined the term "charm." In succession, lectures on the charm of personality, voice, health, mind, and courtesy will be presented by Madison women. Miss Adelia Stewart and Mrs. Mark Troxall will assist in the work.

Y. W. ELECTS OFFICERS

Mrs. W. J. Osburn was elected president of the city Y. W. C. A. at a board meeting Thursday night, to succeed Mrs. Louis E. Reber, who has held that office for the last three years.

Mrs. Osborn has been a resident of Madison for three years, and is active in club and community interests. Is the daughter of a minister, principal of large grade schools, supervisor during the war of instruction and work of the Red Cross of Nodaway county, Mo., and as a worker in women's clubs in various parts of the country, brings a rich experience along religious and executive lines to the Y. W. C. A.

For the last year she has been chairman of the girls' work committee, which is behind the organized work done by the association with the 500 girls who are members of the four high school student clubs and the Junior High Triangles.

The following other officers of the board were re-elected: Mrs. I. Milo Kittlesen, treasurer; Miss Minnie Hastings, recording secretary; Miss Grace E. Meyers, second vice president and finance chairman.

Women Here Honor Frances Willard Today

W. C. T. U. Organizations Pay Tribute To Their Founder

TODAY, the seventeenth of February, is Frances Willard memorial day. The United States congress pauses in its regular business to pay homage to "America's Greatest Woman" the only woman whose statue stands in the hall of fame at Washington, and Women's Christian Temperance Unions throughout each state in the nation are honoring their patron saint, the founder of the organization.

In Madison, the Rev. J. Sherman Wallace, at the First Baptist church will deliver the lecture which marks a quarter of a century since the Wisconsin charter was granted. W. C. T. U. circles in the city have already held services honoring Frances Willard, or will do so in the near future. The Central union next Tuesday at the home of Mrs. G. G. Schneider will have a special program.

This year the memorial services have especial significance, for the organization will see the completion of the five-year expansion program of the W. C. T. U., bringing the national membership to 1,000,000 and a corresponding increase in all departments of the work. Additional objectives set five years ago were for: millions of women citizens to be awakened and trained to civic responsibilities; millions of young people to be enlisted for total abstinance and law observance; millions of pages of free literature to be sent out to promote W. C. T. U. activities; millions of negro citizens to be enlightened on prohibition and law enforcement; and one million dollars to be raised.

Mrs. F. C. Hopkins, 161 Summit avenue, is vice president of the Dane county organization; Mrs. Annie W. Warren, president; and Mrs. Mary Scott Chapman, Superior, president of the Wisconsin W. C. T. U.

* * *

The Central Woman's Christian Temperance Union will have the monthly social meeting Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. D. L. Schneider, 406 North Pinckney street. Devotionals will be led by Mrs. H. L. McMurray; "The Frances E. Willard Memorial Fund," is the subject of a discussion by Mrs. O. A. Kraner; Mrs. R. D. Tabor will speak on "Medical Temperance," and Mrs. H. H. Radcliff, has charge of the music.

OUR SAVIOR'S LADIES' AID

The Ladies' aid of Our Saviors church will meet Thursday at 3 p. m. in the church parlors. Mrs. Mia Root Flum and Mrs. Theodore Flum will be hostesses. The women will sew and a program will be given. A song will be given by Mrs. Ring. Mrs. G. H. Kiland is in charge of the program. After the program the pastor will give a report.

Fitzpatrick To Tell Woman's Club of Dance Hall Survey

MAJOR E. Fitzpatrick will talk before the joint meeting of the Social service, Home Economics and Education departments of the Woman's Club next Friday afternoon on "The Work of the Public Opinion Committee."

This organization has been studying the conditions of public dance halls both in Madison and Dane county, and as its secretary for the past year, Major Fitzpatrick is in a position to tell of the work of the sub-committees in trying to cooperate with proprietors of dance halls, and he will also describe some of the physical conditions which a survey of dance halls has revealed.

The meeting will be in charge of Mrs. Ralph H. Hess, vice chairman of the Social service, Mrs. Volney G. Barnes, vice president of the Home Economics, and Mrs. F. L. Clapp of the Education department. Mrs. William H. Orvis, Chairman of the Social Service department will preside at the meeting while Mrs. Lee M. Greer, Chairman of the Home Economics department and Mrs. Walter C. Owen, Chairman of the Education department, will have charge of the tea table.

Mrs. Taylor Frye will give a group of piano selections. The meeting of the club chorus will take place next Wednesday, February 21, at 2:30.

* * *

CATHOLIC WOMEN'S CLUB

The Catholic Women's club offers an especially rich program for its monthly meeting to be held on Monday afternoon and evening in the Women's building. In the afternoon program, Mrs. Penniston Wright will give two vocal solos, "Where the Linden Blooms," and "The Creole Lover's Song," both by Dudley Buck; Prof. Andrew T. Weaver will read "In Lincoln's Chair," and Miss Esther Schlimgen will interpret Chopin's "Ballade," a piano number; and Mrs. John Barnes will report on the national convention of Catholic Women's clubs which she attended in Washington last December. In the evening Florence Bradley will dance an Irish lilt. Dr. W. S. Lorenz from the psychiatric institute at Mendota will lecture, and the club choir will sing a few concert numbers. Miss Mayme Grabon has been named in charge of the program.

Washington Birthday Parties Are Led by Patriotic Socities

GEORGE WASHINGTON himself could have given no truer word than that patriotism is the keynote of social functions being presented this week. Whether strictly in honor of teh "father of our country" or combined with a post-Valentine events, the prevalence of cherry branches and silver hatchets is maintained.

Birthdays In Madison Are Party Events

Series Of Entertainments In City Are Held During The Week

FEBRUARY birthday parties continue to dominate in the social calendar and surprise parties are especially in favor.

In celebration of her birthday, Mrs. Edward Johnson, 925 Jenifer street, entertained Thursday with an early evening party, the following guests: Misses Ruth and Ethel Gallagher, Olga Kavlen, Clara Sanbeck, Laura and Ethel Dovelin, Mrs. Edward Gruen and Mrs. Edward Hackett. Later in the evening a few other friends came in for bunco and a cafeteria supper, arriving unexpectedly and giving their hostess a complete surprise.

A large cluster of red and white carnations, a birthday gift to Mrs. Johnson, added to the valentine motif in the same colors, that decorated the serving table at which Mrs. Hackett presided. The later evening guests were: Mmes. Edward Torgeson, C. F. Ladwig, Archie and Frank Scott, Glenn Vitense, George Bremer, Arthur Thompson, Henry Kracht, Henry Johnson, and Misses Rena La Dien, Isabelle Scheib and Myrtle Kracht. In the bunco game prizes were awarded to Miss Kracht, Mrs. Torgeson Miss La Dien and Mrs. Frank Scott. A birthday shower for Mrs. Johnson concluded the evening's program.

Mrs. Thompson's Advice

SAYS SHE SHOULD SHARE WAGES

Man Thinks Wife Spends Too Much On Clothes Makes $15 to $30 Weekly, Declares Husband

MY wife and I have been married four years. She does many things I don't approve of, such as not wearing sensible clothes and shoes. When I try to correct her, she pays no attention.

She goes to see a woman friend when I am at work or when I am too tired to go out with her at night. And she follows this woman's example and uses rouge and does other things I don't like. I want her to change back to simple, sensible ways like her mother's and like my relatives. This friend is not the right kind of a woman and I don't want my wife to associate with her.

About a year ago I would not let her go to work when she wanted to, because she is hard of hearing, and her mother worried too much about her crossing the streets. But now her mother is dead and I finally let her go to work and she agreed to give half her wages toward paying our expenses.

Now she wears good clothes to work and spends her earnings on rouge, cream, shampoos and fine clothes. She makes from $15 to $30 a week and does not give me one cent.

Shouldn't she pay me half her wages so I can save something for a rainy day? Am I expected to support both of us? Am I justified in asking for a separation when she acts that way?—One Hundred Per Cent Husband.

I think you rate yourself a good deal too high. Though it perhaps would be very difficult for you to realize it, your letter suggests that your faults are more numerous and more serious than those of your wife.

Don't think of separation. Only the most serious reasons justify such a course. And you letter does not indicate that you have such reasons. And don't set yourself as a dictator in your home. Your wife has equal rights with you. She is not a child to be told what she must and must not do. She has just as much right to choose her own clothes and her own friends as you have to choose yours. Perhaps she has a much better idea as to what is suitable and sensible in clothes that you have. And you are mistaken if you think that using cosmetics is a question of right and wrong. Of course it is not in good taste to use them to excess, but you should not object to your wife using them in moderation.

A wife who works outside the home should pay a part of the upkeep of the home if necessary. Perhaps your wife thinks that in buying her clothes she is making a sufficient contribution. You apparently want a part of her earnings merely so you can save. Why not encourage her to save something herself?

HE IS OFFENDED.

Several months ago my girl friend introduced me to a young man. I have gone out with him several times and now realize that it would be a loss to give up his friendship. But I fear that my fondness for joking has caused a misunderstanding.

In jest I once made a remark about his grouchy expression, and he thought I was in earnest and was so offended that he has not spoken to me since. I feel that he expects an apology. Should I write a note and explain that I made the remark only in fun? B. H.

Since you feel that your remark has offended the young man, the courteous thing would be to write a note of explanation and apology. But you should remember that there are many persons who cannot take an uncomplimentary remark in good part, even though they know it is a jest. Try to avoid saying things which might hurt the feelings of anyone.

* * *

NEEDS ENCOURAGEMENT.

I am a young man, 20. Recently a boy friend and I were discussing a girl who went through high school with us and graduated in our class. He bet me that I couldnt date with her. I made it date all right and we had a very enjoyable evening together.

I was really surprised myself that I succeeded in making this date, as she is very popular with the boys, is good looking, a swell dancer—in fact, everything that a fellow could want.

Now, this is what I want to know. Should I continue taking her out, and if so, how often? Or should I just let the matter drop? HUSKY.

I hesitate to advise anyone to offer attentions to a girl when he has so little interest in the matter as you seem to have, and when he feels the need of consulting someone else every time he ventures a step further in the affair.

If you enjoy her company, the fact that this girl has accepted one of your invitations is sufficient encouragement for you to invite her out again from time to time.

But don't make her or any girl the subject of a wager hereafter. She might resent that very much if it should come to her knowledge.

BUSINESS GIRL'S PROBLEM.

I worked for a firm for more than a year. My employer and his wife were nice to me and she entertained me several times. Then another man was taken into the partnership. A few weeks after this happened my former employer went west on business and was gone a month. I couldn't get along with the new partner and one day lost my patience and said I would quit. He told me he didn't care if I did, so there was nothing else to do. I wrote the first man a letter, telling him what had happened. He answered that he was sorry and would call me up as soon as he and his wife returned home. They have been back now for two months, but neither of them has called me up. Do you think I ought to call them up, or shall I let the matter rest and forget about it? I have another good position, but am uncertain as to what I ought to do.

LILIAN.

As you have another good position and therefore have suffered no real hardship through the loss of the first, it doubtless would be better to let the matter rest as it is.

Since your former employer has not communicated with you as he said he would, you can assume that he does not care to reinstate you. And it probably would not be pleasant for you to work there again if you cannot get along amicably with the new member of the firm.

CARE OF THE SKIN.

Will you please tell me what to do for a dry skin? I put on a good cold cream every night and also during the day as I am home most of the time, but as soon as I put powder on my skin seems to chap. And my hands are the same way, powder or no powder.

MRS. D. E. P.

Perhaps yours is a skin which responds better to a vanishing cream than to a cold cream. Try it, especially as a base for powder.

And it may be that you are using a soap which is too harsh in its action. Try a milder soap. Or, you might follow the plan used by some women and cleanse the face with-ons soap for a while, using olive oil or a good cleansing cream.

The above suggestions apply to the face. To keep the hands smooth and soft, use frequent applications of a lotion made of equal parts of glycerine and camphor.

EDITH CLIFFORD COMING IN SONG SKIT

Blonde Beauty to Top Vaudeville Program

A vision of blonde beauty with a wealth of wisdom in slang is Edith Clifford, coming to the Orpheum tomorrow afternoon. Miss Clifford has a series of special song numbers which are highly descriptive and smart in their up to dateness. Numerous stunning costumes will be worn by the comedienne. She has a manner of singing which is not only novel and original, but highly effective. Accompanying Miss Clifford will be Zella Ingraham.

A variety of songs, dances and musical interpolations will be introduced by "Broadway to the Bowery." This vehicle will bring to Madison two clever dancers, Frances Milner and Harry Kilby. Adia Henry and Allen Behr will continue their share of entertainment. Opening with a setting depicting a fashionable salon on upper Broadway, New York, the course of the song, dance and music vehicle will carry spectators to the Bowery.

Clyde Hager and Walter Goodwin, well known popular song writers, will appear in an act called "The Ballyhoo." These boys sing and play piano in effective style. The 'grouch killers," Miller, Packer and Selz, will offer their cure for the blues in clever talk and smart songs. Page, Hack and Mack in "Wait for the Finish" and one other act will add their talents to the show for the first half.

"PEG O' MY HEART" HAS REAL APPEAL

Tonight furnishes the last opportunity of seeing "A Front Page Story" now running at the Parkway. Brimful of laughter, bubbling over with delightful comedy moments, "A Front Page Story" is the best comedy drama of American life that has ever been produced.

One of the best slapstick comedies of recent weeks is also on the bill in "High Power." Tomorrow the Parkway will present one of the outstanding film successes of recent years the screen version of the most beloved play of the last decade "Peg O' My Heart," with Laurette Taylor, the actress who made the role of Peg famous. Metro has given this photoplay an unusual mounting and the result has been a photoplay intensely interesting and amusing. Thoroughly Irish in character, "Peg O' My Heart" has a deeper appeal for everybody and its humor is real and genuine. A novelty organ solo, "Love Sends a Little Gift of Roses" will be on the program and a Christie-Educational comedy "Second Childhood" with Bobby Vernon, completes the show.

Mail orders are now being received for the impending visit here of "Tangerine" the brilliant and unusual musical comedy of the tropics. It will be at the Parkway Saturday matinee and night Feb. 24.

"THE NINETY AND NINE" IS COMING

Last times today at the Strand Norma Talmadge and Eugene O'Brien in "The Voice From The Minaret." Starting Sunday a pleasing little touch is given in the introduction of "The Ninety and Nine" and serves as a sort of prologue. This shows a shepherd at watch over his flock of a hundred sheep. One of them strays away, and the shepherd leaves the flock and goes off in search of the lost sheep. This visualizes the hymn around which the play is written and is also the theme of the story. "The Ninety and Nine," the Vitagraph big Special Production which will be shown at the Strand Theatre starting Sunday is replete with thrills. It combines the life of the big city with that of the small town of the middle West. There will also be shown an All Star Comedy "Faint Hearts" and International News.

"THE WORLD'S APPLAUSE," NOVEL OFFERING

Betty Compson, Bert Lytell and May McAvoy will be seen at the Majestic for the last times today in "Kick In", a Carter DeHaven comedy is also being shown.

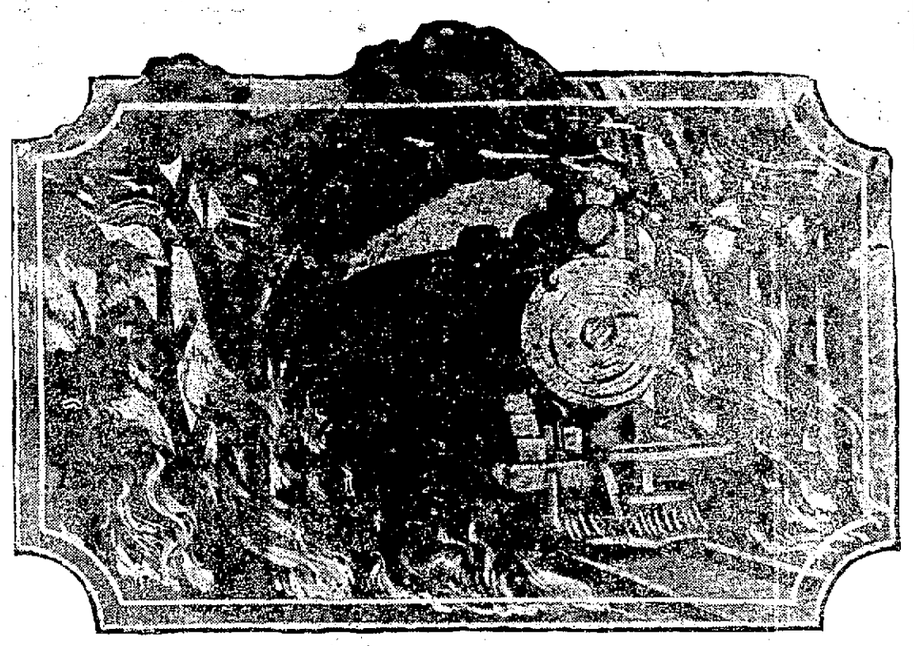

William de Mille's latest production "The World's Applause" with Bebe Daniels and Lewis Stone, will be the feature attraction at the Majestic for one week starting Sunday. Corinne d'Alys, an unusually successful actress, is obsessed by a craze for publicity. She pays no heed to the protests of John Elliott, her manager, who secretly loves her.

When Townsend, a rich artist and roue, who neglects his wife, paints a picture of Corinne, Mrs. Townsend becomes enraged and destroys the painting with a knife. In an effort to prevent this destruction Townsend is stabbed to death. Corinne discovers the body, and the police detain her. Elliott, who is Mrs. Townsend's brother, learns the truth, and to save both his sister and the woman he loves permits suspicion to rest upon him. The newspapers turn upon Corinne, and she finds herself deserted. Later, Mrs. Townsend, before going abroad, writes a confession, and Corinne and Elliott find love and happiness.

"Thrill Scene" In New Strand Offering

SCENE FROM "THE NINETY AND NINE"

The big thrill scene in the David Smith production, "The Ninety and Nine," shows the hero, played by Warner Baxter, driving a locomotive through miles of burning forest, over burning bridges and past falling trees to carry a relief train to a doomed town. It is one of the most realistic scenes of its kind ever transferred to celluloid.

Uncle Wiggily's Bedtime Stories

By Howard Garis

UNCLE WIGGILY'S RUBBER COAT

Copyright, 1923, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

(By Howard R. Garis.)

One day when Uncle Wiggily came home from the five and ten cent store, where he had gone to see about getting a new piano, the bunny rabbit gentleman saw Nurse Jane picking leaves from the rubber plant in the front hall.

"What are you doing, Janie?" asked the bunny rabbit. "You'll spoil your rubber plant that I gave you for Christmas."

"Oh, no," answered Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy. "It has many more leaves than it needs," and she picked off half a dozen.

"But what are you going to do with them?" asked Mr. Longears.

"Make you a rubber coat," answered the muskrat lady. "Since you were so kind as to go out in the rain yesterday and get me headache medicine, I have been thinking that you need a new rubber coat. And the best thing to make it from are leaves from the rubber plant."

"You are very kind," said Uncle Wiggily.

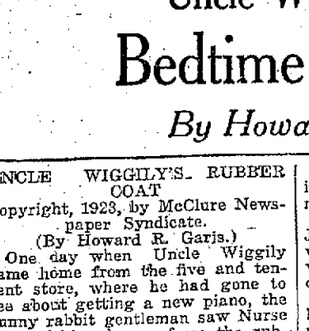

Nurse Jane sewed together the broad, flat leaves from her house rubber plant, until she had made the bunny rabbit gentleman a fine rubber coat.

"There you are," she called, holding it up. "Try it on, Uncle Wiggily."

"I'm afraid it's too small," said Mr. Longears.

"Oh, it will stretch," said Nurse Jane. "Try it."

The new rubber coat did look very small—hardly large enough for Sammie Littletail, the rabbit

"Let go!" cried Uncle Wiggily.

boy. But when Uncle Wiggily put it on the rubber coat stretched out larger until it fitted him perfectly.

"That's a fine coat," said Uncle Wiggily. "Now when I go out in the rain—even if I don't have my umbrella with celluloid windows in—I shall not get wet."

Just then in came Mr. Whitewash, the polar bear, bringing some ice for Uncle Wiggily's supper, and Mr. Whitewash said:

"Oh, what a fine coat. Of course it's too small for me, but it is very nice, otherwise."

"It will fit you, too," said Nurse Jane. "That rubber plant coat is very stretchy. Try it, Mr. Whitewash, and if you like it I'll make one for you."

Uncle Wiggily took off the rubber coat, which shrank back in size until it looked right for Sammie Littletail, and then Mr. Whitewash slipped his paws in the sleeves.

"Why," exclaimed the polar bear gentleman in surprise, "it does fit me like a glove! My, what a fine, stretchy rubber coat," and he took hold of one corner and pulled it out.

"Snap!" the end of the coat flew back, hitting Mr. Whitewash on the paw.

"Ouch!" howled the polar bear gentleman with a little laugh, "It is quite snappy as well as stretchy."

"I'll make you one next week when my rubber plant grows more leaves," promised Nurse Jane. The polar bear gentleman thanked the muskrat lady and then he hurried back to his ice cave.

"For I think it's going to rain," he said.

"I hope it does!" exclaimed Uncle Wiggily. "Then I can try my new rubber coat."

And it did rain—almost as hard as the day Dr. Possum put celluloid windows in Uncle Wiggily's umbrella. The rabbit gentleman went out in his new rubber coat. And, as it happened, the Skillery Scallery Alligator, flopping around in a mud puddle, saw the rabbit.

"Ah, ha!" said the 'gator to himself. "When Uncle Wiggily comes this way I'll catch him by his long rubber coat and pull him in. Then I can nibble his ears."

The bunny passed the puddle. Up went the snout of the 'gator and he caught hold of the rubber coat.

"Let go!" cried Uncle Wiggily, pulling back.

"No! No!" bellowed the alligator, pulling forward.

The rubber coat began to stretch. Longer and longer it was pulled out, one corner in the 'gator's mouth. All of a sudden the 'gator lost his hold. Back flew the rubber coat, and it snapped Uncle Wiggily away out of reach of the bad animal.

"Oh-oh, my-my goodness!" panted the bunny, for the breath was knocked from him. "But that's better than having my ears nibbled," he said. "My snappy, stretchy rubber coat saved my life!"

And so it had, for when the 'gator let go he fell back in the mud puddle and bumped his nose, and it served him right, I'll say.

And if the lollypop doesn't hide down inside the ice cream cone to get away from the peppermint drop. I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and Sammie's bird.

TODAY'S RECIPES.

Spinach—Cook the spinach in a very little water, using a low fire. It needs to be cooked only a very short time, until it is all soft. A small amount takes 15 minutes. Cooking in too much water wastes the important constituents and cooking it too long gives it a dark, unappetizing color.

Round Steak—Cut one pound of round steak (about one-half inch thick) in portions suitable for serving. Pound flour into the meat. Fry until a rich brown, using plenty of lard and a hot fire. Remove from fire and add two or three small whole onions and season. Have ready a can of stewed tomatoes, heated and to which has been added sugar and salt. Add to the meat enough of the stewed tomatoes to just come to the top of the meat, but do not cover. Bake in the oven one hour. Keep adding stewed tomatoes as the tomatoes on the meat cook down. This gives the tomato sauce a delicious fried and meaty flavor.

Ice Box Pudding (serves six)—One-quarter cup sugar, one-quarter cup milk, yolks of three eggs, one tablespoon cornstarch. Beat altogether and cook in double boiler until thick. When cool add the juice of one lemon and the rind of one-half lemon. Cream one-quarter pound sweet butter (wash ordinary butter) and one cup confectioners' sugar. Add beaten whites of three eggs. Then add this to the above custard. In a loaf pan place a layer of lady fingers, and a layer of the above mixture, a layer of lady fingers, a layer of mixture and on top lady fingers, using one and one-half dozen lady fingers altogether. Put on ice or in outside window box for 24 hours. Serve with whipped cream.

THINGS HELPFUL AND INTERESTING.

Use Wire Egg Whip—You will find a 10-cent wire egg whip a great help in making mashed potatoes, it keeps them nice and light. It is also fine for pancake batter, or sponge cake batter. It beats up the lumps more quickly than mixing spoon.

Waste Made Into Fuel—Experiments carried out in Seattle have developed a wood briquette that equals anthracite coal in heating value, according to reports. The new fuel is made of sawdust, bark and mill refuse now considered a total waste.

TO EXPECTANT MOTHERS
A Letter from Mrs. Ward Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helped Her

Springfield, Ohio.—"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound proved a splendid medicine for me before my fourth child was born. With the first three I had been sick and weak, and had sick headaches twice a week. I couldn't keep enough food down to do me any good, and my work was left undone many a time. My sister-in-law told me to take the Vegetable Compound when I began to have the same old dreadful sickness and headaches and was so worn out. Since then I have only had two headaches, had a good appetite and scarcely lost a meal. I have a fine, healthy baby girl who has never had a sick day. The nicest part is that I am healthy, too. It did me a lot of good, and if I should ever have another baby I will take your medicine at once."—Mrs. BESSIE WARD, 1027 Park Avenue, Springfield, Ohio.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is an excellent medicine for expectant mothers, and should be taken during the entire period. It has a general effect to strengthen and tone up the entire system.

The Ways of a Widow

By Grace Phelps

ELSIE REGRETS HER TREATMENT OF NAN

"I don't think I know what you mean!" Elsie faltered, embarrassed.

The brown eyes held hers for a long moment.

"Perhaps I shall be able to tell you someday why I hold such a low opinion of you," the Rev. Michael answered softly.

"I say," Edward Freeman put in, excited. "This is getting beyond me. I don't understand why Elsie doesn't have sense enough to see Grant's hand in this before. And I don't see why you should be congratulating her now on her discovery. Seems to me, her disloyalty to Mrs. Murray has been a little thick!"

Elsie flushed. "I deserve that, father," she admitted. "I was stupid and I was disloyal. I—I haven't any excuse. But I do know that I am willing no, anxious to go to Nan now and beg her pardon! And if you can think of any way that I can help her," she turned back to the young rector, "I wish you would tell me and I'll do it!"

The Rev. Michael smiled at her, a warm winning smile.

"I think you can help most by going straight to her! The fact that you have stayed away from the Javanese Shop has helped to give color to the rumor about Mrs. Murray and Mr. Weston."

Elsie's head drooped. "I am ashamed," she said in a voice so low he could hardly hear it. She raised her head. "But they are engaged to be married, aren't they? There was an announement to that effect in last night's Bugle."

He looked at her seriously. "I am afraid Mrs. Murray was driven to that in order to offset the slander," he said slowly. It was a hard blow for the girl but, aspecting what he did, he felt that it was better not to let her raise false hopes.

Elsie's face grew white. "Then you think she cares—I mean," she corrected herself quickly, "you think she does not care for Mr. Weston?"

The Rev. Michael shook his head. "I am only guessing," he said, "but I think I am not far from right. Weston has stood by her in this. I am not sure, but I think he must have raised the money for her to redeem the note, and if that is so, she naturally feels under obligation to—"

"I see," Elsie murmured. Edward Freman had been silent long enough.

"How do you know so much about Mrs. Murray's note?" he asked curiously. "Did she tell you?"

"Ah, I am glad you asked me that! She did tell me, but only incidentally, when she sent for me and asked me to help Dr. Nelson!" The Rev. Michael looked at Elsie to see how she would take this.

"You mean," Elsie's eyes widened with dismay, "you mean that Nan was the one to tell you Andy Morgan was behind that lie about Jimmie?"

"I mean just that!" Some of the pity he felt for her crept into his voice.

"O—O!" It was more of a cry of distress than an exclamation. "I—I can't bear to hear any more!" And the girl turned and fled.

"Now what?" exclaimed her amazed father "Whatever do you make of that?"

The young rector looked after her with something like pain in the expression that crept into his eyes.

"I am afraid I do not know," he said loyally.

Smith Talks To City Planners At Meeting

That the Indiana state conference on city planning was a tremendous success and that Wisconsin should hold one next year is the opinion of Prof. Leonard S. Smith, who attended and spoke on housing and its relation to city planning.

The conference, which lasted two days, was held to stimulate interest in the city planning and zoning laws passed by the Indiana legislature in 1921. The city of Indianapolis just recently passed the zoning ordinance and fourteen cities have formed planning commissions.

Speakers of national fame in city planning spoke at the five sessions. Mr. Harland Batholomew, who recently laid the zoning plans for Madison, spoke at one session on "City Planning—Past and Future."

The only way to prevent poor housing conditions in a city is to prevent the enlargement of slum districts and educate the people in correct housing because it is impossible to clean up slums and correct the building of houses in a short time, pointed out Professor Smith in his discourse.

"Slums are in many cities the result of poor transportation. The workers are forced to live close to the factory districts in the most valuable part of the city, where living expenses are high and building space scarce.

"Poor planning is found in nearly every home. Even many of the finest and most expensive homes are inadequately constructed for ventilation and lighting."

City planning seems to be growing in interest and many states are holding conferences similar to the one in Indiana. This one, which was held under the School of Engineering at Purdue university was the first one for Indiana.

Cardinal Will Radio Game With Michigan

The Michigan-Wisconsin game here Monday night will be broadcasted to the radio fans throughout the country, arrangements having been made by The Cardinal and the Northwestern Radio company yesterday.

The broadcasting of the game will be an added feature to the daily wireless telephone service which The Cardinal will introduce next Tuesday.

A play by play service will be impractical in broadcasting the game, and for this reason the news will be transmitted at five minute intervals, each bulletin telling of the general progress of the game, and the more important plays.

To Start With Game

With the game scheduled to start at 7:30 o'clock, broadcasting will commence at approximately 7:40. A Cardinal reporter, stationed in the balcony will take notes and these notes will be relayed by telephone to the Northwestern Radio company, where C. D. Kelley, chief technician, will broadcast them.

RUSSIAN "YARMARK" IS ODD NOVELTY

The tage of the Orpheum Theatre next Thursday will be a riot of color, will ring with delightful harmonies and will reveal superb dancers and comedians when the Russian novelty "Yarmark" is presented as the headline. It is a night at the carnival, the celebration of an annual festival. But in the case of this particular celebration, it is possibly the most unusual act ever given in vaudeville.

The company was assembled by Daniel Makarenko, in this country.

Makarenko, who comes from Rostoc, on the Dom River, the home town of Zambalia, the famous violinist, has long been a familiar figure on the American stage and in pictures. Theodor Stepanoff, premier dancer, was a star of the famous Imperial ballet in Petrograd before the war, dancing with Nordkin and Volinin. Every member of the company has an interesting history.

Pablo Casals Plays Here Tuesday; Regimental Band Plans Offering

Earle Swinney To Aid In Band Concert Here Next Saturday

By ADRIAN SCOLTEN.

PABLO CASALS, who will appear at the University gym next Tuesday, under the auspices of the Union Board, has probably solicited less and received more of publicity than any other artist in this country. Last year he was here for a very short time, and played only a few concerts in the far west and in Mexico, but during that time his name appeared in numerous periodicals and journals. This was not because he was involved in any unusual events, not because his personality is of the bizarre or unique variety that lends itself to notoriety, but simply because every time someone wishes to write about the greatest artists, Casals naturally takes his place in the story.

In a periodical read by more than two million people in this country weekly, an article appeared recently on the four supreme figures in the musical world of America. In the part about Casals, the author, Pierre V. Key, says among other things: "He played as though he had a secret unrevealed instead of the ten allotted to humans. His 'cello this afternoon was like some celestial instrument."

Tickets for the concert here are going fast. They are on sale at the A. E. Smith Music Co.

REGIMENTAL BAND

The First Regimental Concert band, directed by Major E. W. Morphy, assisted by Lowell L. Townsend, pianist, and E. Earle Swinney, baritone, will give a complimentary concert, Saturday afternoon, Feb. 24, in Music hall auditorium, at 4:30 p. m.

The principal object of this musical event is to invite the visiting Fifth Center Boys band, the Madison High school band, and a number of musicians to an hour of musical entertainment.

The balcony will be reserved for the members of band organizations in uniform, the main floor will be open to the public.

LONDON STRING QUARTET

The sedate appeal of stringed instruments in ensemble grows constantly as we become more familiar with this form of music. Madison, with its many musical activities, is rapidly approaching the musical standards required for the true appreciation of stringed quartet music, as evidenced by the unusually large attendance given such concerts in this city.

This is an almost sure indication that the London stringed quartet which will appear here on March 14, will be greeted by an audience keyed to the true appreciation of the delicacies of the highest type of music.

CECELIA CLUB

The charter members of the Cecilia club of the Wheeler School of Music will be entertained at a cafeteria supper this evening at 6 o'clock at the home of Mrs. E. E. Parkinson, 23 E. Gorham st. After supper a business meeting will be held and the constitution and by-laws proposed at the last meeting will be finally discussed and adopted and officers elected. In the past the club has been primarily a social organization, its purpose being to promote good fellowship among its members. The members now propose to make an organization for work and study as well as social activities. The object of the society is to take an active interest, and wherever possible, an active part, either as a club or individuals, in the musical activities of the community; to aid in bringing the best in music and dramatic art within the reach of everyone and to strive to impress the public with the importance of music and its associated arts in the education and life of the individual. The charter members of the club are: Mrs. Fletcher Wheeler, Mrs. Marie Seuel-Holst, Mrs. Hazel Alford-Miller, Mrs. Mary Sauthoff, Mrs. Florence Kelly Baskerville, Mrs. Adela Seuel Genshaw, Mrs. Mary Sherwood Hill, Mrs. Litta Lynn, Mrs. Frederick Ernst, Miss Susan M. Semer, Miss Ethel M. Todd, Miss Emma Olson, Miss Berniece Whittemore, Miss Alice Anderson, Miss Lorraine Martens, Miss Laures Owen, Miss Annie McLyen, Miss Elizabeth Samuels.

WHEELER MUSIC CLUB

The Senior Wheeler Music club will hold a business meeting Monday evening in the hall of the school when officers for the coming year will be elected and plans for a series of Lenten programs will be perfected. Immediately after Lent the club will give a dance to which they will invite their friends.

MENASHA. — Expenditure of $19,793 of the local swer system, for the installation of a new injector, pit and pump house, has been athorized by the city council.

Winter Festival To Feature Phases Of Rural Life And Management

Exhibits showing the scope of the Agricultural Economics, the Agricultural Education, and the Agricultural Extension departments will be on display in Agricultural hall during the Winter Farm Festival next week.

The Agricultural Economics display will feature three phases of activity—general rural economy studies, farm management, and rural life. Charts showing the relative purchasing power of the farmer's dollar since 1913 are to be used. Maps of 30 farms featuring the development of cost accounting in farm management are included in the economics display. Rural community maps, rural community organization, and social surveys complete the variety of activities that are to be typified by the rural economics exhibit.

Maps indicating the development of agricultural education in Wisconsin are a part of the Agricultural Education department exhibit. Under the Smith Hughes law, agricultural education has grown until there are more than 100 high schools teaching agriculture in Wisconsin.

How the College of Agriculture reaches the people of the state is to be illustrated in the Agricultural Extension display. Some 48 county agents, and more than a score of extension specialists distribute the practical scientific discoveries from the agricultural college, the producer, to the farmers, the consumers of scientific knowledge.

Capital Correspondent's Head Addresses Senior Journalists

Mr. Robert Barry, chairman of the standing committee of correspondents in Washington, spoke on the subject "Journalism Is Now Regarded as a Profession," to the senior students of the course in Journalism yesterday morning at nine o'clock.

"It is only in the last dozen years or so that the government has come to recognize journalism as a profession. They now hold it to be one of the foremost of the professions," said Mr. Barry. "The college journalist is being recognized to a much larger extent now than he was in th past. Twelve years ago no college newspaperman worked at Washington, while now many of them are chiefs of bureaus and otherwise prominent in journalistic work. Sensible leaders of the profession look on college trained men as the hope of journalism."

Grads at Washington

Two Wisconsin graduates are now holding prominent positions in Washington in newspaper work. Ralph Sucher '19, is running a press bureau of his own and Mr. Barry says, "I have in my Public Ledger bureau a Wisconsin graduate, Joseph Farrington '19, who is now regarded as one of the highest type newspaper men in the capital."

The importance attached to newspaper work by the government was explained by Mr. Barry. "Congress has trusted the newspapermen to manage their own gallery. Approximately 400 correspondents are seated in the special press gallery."

Arrangements for only a dozen press men were made by the government when the Disarmament conference was to be held. The Press bureau at Washington under the leadership of Mr. Barry forced the government to provide room for 1,000 correspondents. In so doing many foreign and domestic men of great distinction were given seats that were not as good as those of the press.

Mr. Barry explained, "The convention hall for the International Disarmament conference was moved from the Pan-American building to the Continental Memorial hall purposely last year to accomodate the host of journalists. This is one of the most outstanding of recent tributes to the importance of journalism."

In the United States the press men are allowed to make their own rules governing themselves through the press associations. In Europe the journalists are under strict suspervision of the government all of the time. Journalism is considered a much greater profession in this country than in Europe.

News is Unbiased

No one is allowed in the press gallery at the capital without swearing that he is a newspaper man and does not represent any political or comercial organization. In this way, pure unbiased news is gotten for the public. There is no graft. At national political party conventions various journalists have attempted to use political connectionss to gain more advantageous seats than have been assigned to them by the press bureau.

"Political parties have never gone above the decisions of the press bureau with regard to national conventions," stated Mr. Barry.

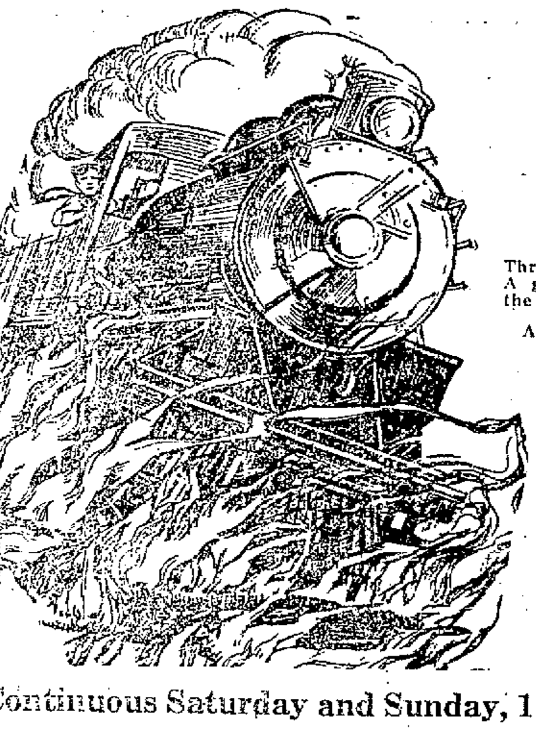

Mr. Barry came from Washington here especially to talk to the journalism students.

HOME ECS PLAN BRIDE'S COURSE FOR L. S. WOMEN

"We have planned a one year course to give the L. and S. student a general taste of all of the departments in the school of Home Economics" was the statement yesterday of Miss Jean Krueger, assistant professor of Home Economics, in speaking of the so called Bride's short course.

"It gives the college girl a practical taste of Home Economics. If is a broadening course and whether a girl plans marrying or going into a profession it is highly beneficial," said Miss H. T. Parson of the same department.

The first semester's work consists in food study, cooking and dietetics. The second semester embraces a knowledge of house management, architecture and sewing.

In the spring those who choose to do so live at the practice cottage for two weeks. There they have turns at being hostess, housekeeper, scrub lady or laundress. They perform all the duties that arise in two weeks management of a house.

"The flapper type is dying. The slinker is an extreme. The average modern girl wants to prepare herself for the home she always dreams of. If her ambitions rise to professions, she will at least want to manage her own studio," Miss Parson said. "Surely the members of the "He-Man" club will approve of this course," she added.

Mrs. C. A. Oehler, mother of Mrs. Bernice Oehler, Madison artise, 237 Langdon st., has returned to her home in Lake Mills, after an illness at the General hospital.

Former Edgerton Woman Wins Fame in Literary Circles

New York Critic Praises Poems By Jessica Nelson North Recently Published In Issue Of "Poetry"

A former Edgerton girl, born in Madison, is receiving recognition for her writings. She is Mrs. Reed I. McDonald of Chicago, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. W. North of Edgerton.

Jessica Nelson North, (Mrs. MacDonald), was born at Madison. Her mother, Elizabeth Nelson a graduate of the University of Wisconsin was a literary enthusiast and the inspirtion of her daughter's earlier literary work.

Mrs. MacDonald was educated in the public schools of Edgerton, a graduate from Lawrence College, and later took a course in authorship at the University of Chicago under Prof. Herrick. She then worked with Pres. Judson as his private secretary for three years and is at the present time publicist of the Art Institute of Chicago.

Her writings are largely verse and have appeared in nearly all the leading literary magazines. Since her connection with the Art Institute, however, she has written art subjects and her illustrated articles on art are appearing in "Arts and Decoration", "Harpers Bazaar", "Asia", and other magazines.

In reviewing poems which appeared during October, William Rose Bennett, assistant editor of the Literary Review and the New York Evening Post and former editor of the Century Magazine, has this to say in the Bookman: "One of the five best poems produced by women during the month is "Bogie" by Jessica Nelson North in "Poetry."

Besides this miscellaneous writing Mrs. MacDonald is the editor-in-chief of the Adelphian, the national organ of the Alpha Delta Pi sorority, and is president of the Poets' club at Chicago.

Bill Tilden Is Expected To Stage Delayed Comeback

WHAT about Bill Tilden?

That question has been fired scores of times during the winter.

The injury which Tilden recently suffered, necessitating the removal of the first two joints from the index finger of the right hand, has of course prompted the keen interest in the probable condition of the champion.

William T. Tilden is just "Big Bill." His remarkable achievements during his reign as "tennis king" makes him the outstanding figure in the tennis world.

There never was a more popular champion.

Recently at Chicago Tilden in some exhibition matches made his first test of play since recovering from his injury. He met with fair success.

Perhaps it is too early to pass accurate judgment. There are many weeks before the big tournaments get under way. Many things can happen in that space of time.

After considerable thought, together with some authenic information, we are convinced that for a time in the early spring "Big Bill" will be easy picking, so to speak, for some of the mediocre players.

Tilden will be forced to eliminate many of his tricky court shots in the future, which will mean that he will be forced to stay further away from the net. This will diminish his effectiveness to no small degree and his attack will be limited to a back court game.

But watch him improve! His incapacitated finger will not interfere with his fiery spirit, his dogged determination and his air of confidence.

Tilden is the toughest man in the world to beat and after two months' time, which he will use in perfecting a new style, he will again prove that he is one of the greatest players.

But will he succeed in annexing the same titles that he so ably gathered in last year? That is another story, of course, the answer to which remains in the unforeseen future.

Heavy Snow Favors Jumpers In State Ski Tourney Here

Muir Knoll Slide In Tip-Top Shape For Meet This Afternoon

The recent cold wave with the heavy fall of snow it brought has enabled the members of the Badger Ski club to put the ski slide on Muir knoll in condition. Madison high school and university students are also assured of seeing some good jumping when the Wisconsin State Ski tournament opens at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon.

This is to be the final meet of the year. Local skiers have had the experience of competing in all of the tournaments that have been held throughout the middle west this season, and they will be able to offer some strong oppositon to the out of town ski riders and have an opportunity to capture first place.

The crisp dry snow which has been packed down makes an ideal slanting ground for the jumps and makes the run on the wooden scaffold more speedy.

Richard Goodridge '23, who was injured at Lake Placid, and Kenneth Fagg '25, who was hurt at Grand Beach, have recovered and will jump today.

Sverre Strom '24, winner of the National Collegiate championship at Minneapolis last Saturday, Gordon Tucker, grad, Malcolm Guldan, federal board student Ray Wengel '24, Clyde Strachan '24, Eihler Schjolberg '25, George Martin grad, and Oscar Christenson will represent the Badger Ski club.

Among the special features of the tournament will be exhibition double jump in which two skiers come down the slide and go over the take-off side by side. The landing ground has been widened for this event so that both jumpers will have an equal chance to stand

Eugene Criqui Sails For Kilbane Match

PARIS—Eugene Criqui, European featherweight champion, will sail for New York from Havre on March 10, accompanied by his manager, M. Eudeline, to begin training for his world's championship fight against Johnny Kilbane of New York on Memorial day.

Criqui has just recovered from a severe attack of grippe and influenza and needs two more weeks for training otherwise he would have sailed for America sooner.

Sharkey And Welsh Seek European Bouts

NEW YORK—Jack Sharkey, heavyweight, will sail for France Saturday with Freddie Welsh, world's champion lightweight, to seek bouts with European featherweights.

Notre Dame Loses Miller For Remaining Games

Notre Dame's center on the Notre Dame basketball team, because of injuries sustained in the game with De Pauw last Thursday, will be out of the remaining basketball games. Miller is also regarded as a back on the Notre Dame football eleven.

"Greasy" Neale Takes Baseball Job At Virginia

UNIVERSITY, Va.—Earle Neale will report at the University of Virginia March 1 to coach baseball for the spring season. "Greasy" Neale, who had previously signed up for year-round coach, beginning in September has accepted an offer of the coaching committee to begin in two weeks.

John S. Kellison, who for five years has been Neale's assistant and line coach, has signed as assistant coach of football. H. D. Thomas, for two years coach of the Parkersburg, W. Va., high school, has accepted an offer to direct first year athletics.

Virginia's first baseball game will be played against New York University March 26. Pitchers and catchers have begun training under "Pop" Lannigan.

Beloit, Champions

Cop State Collegiate Title By Trimming Carroll 20 To 17

BELOIT, Wis.—Beloit college won a clear claim to the state collegiate basketball title Friday night when the Gold team defeated Carroll college in an exciting game, 20 to 17. The victory gives Beloit a toehold on state honors, with no losses and five wins.

Carroll gave Beloit the best opposition it has received from any of the state colleges. Beloit led at the half, 17 to 13, and was held without a basket in the second half.

Six Day Bike Race Speeds Up Tonight

CHICAGO — With two teams leading the field by one and two laps and eight combinations scheduled to go into the final hour of sprinting, the six day bicycle race will close tonight at the Coliseum. The sprinting will start at 10 o'clock, and for one hour every mile will be a sprint, with riders winning the first four places to be credited with points.

The teams of Brocco and Egg and Grenda and Kockled are one lap ahead of the field, and only one point separated them at 8 o'clock last night. Six teams are one lap behind, and unless there is a serious change in the standing before 10 o'clock tonight the first and second division teams will face the started for the final hour of sprinting.

Babe Ruth Leaves For Spring Training

NEW YORK—Hungering for the feel of the wagon tongue in his big capable hands, Babe Ruth left late this afternoon for Hot Springs, Ark, to begin training for the 1923 baseball season.

"I am in far better condition now than I was last year when I did my training on Broadway," he declared today. "I expect to have the best year of my career or admit that I haven't it in me."

Ruth will be joined in Philadelphia by Wally Schang, Yankee catcher.

Many U. W. Frosh Fail To Pass Tank Tests

Nearly 200 out of 700 freshmen failed to pass the swimming test required by the university of all students before graduation, which was held this week in the gymnasium by Joe Steinauer, swimming coach.

Not all the freshmen nor any of the new students of rank higher than freshman have taken the test. When the tests are fully completed there will be 300 or more who were unable to make it out of 1000, according to Steinauer.

This will be a ratio of nearly one to three who failed. Some failing in the test are able to swim, but not the required distance, which is twice the length of the tank or 75 yards.

Each summer there are 25 or more seniors, who failing to take the test have to remain to learn to swim before receiving their diploma, commented Steinauer.

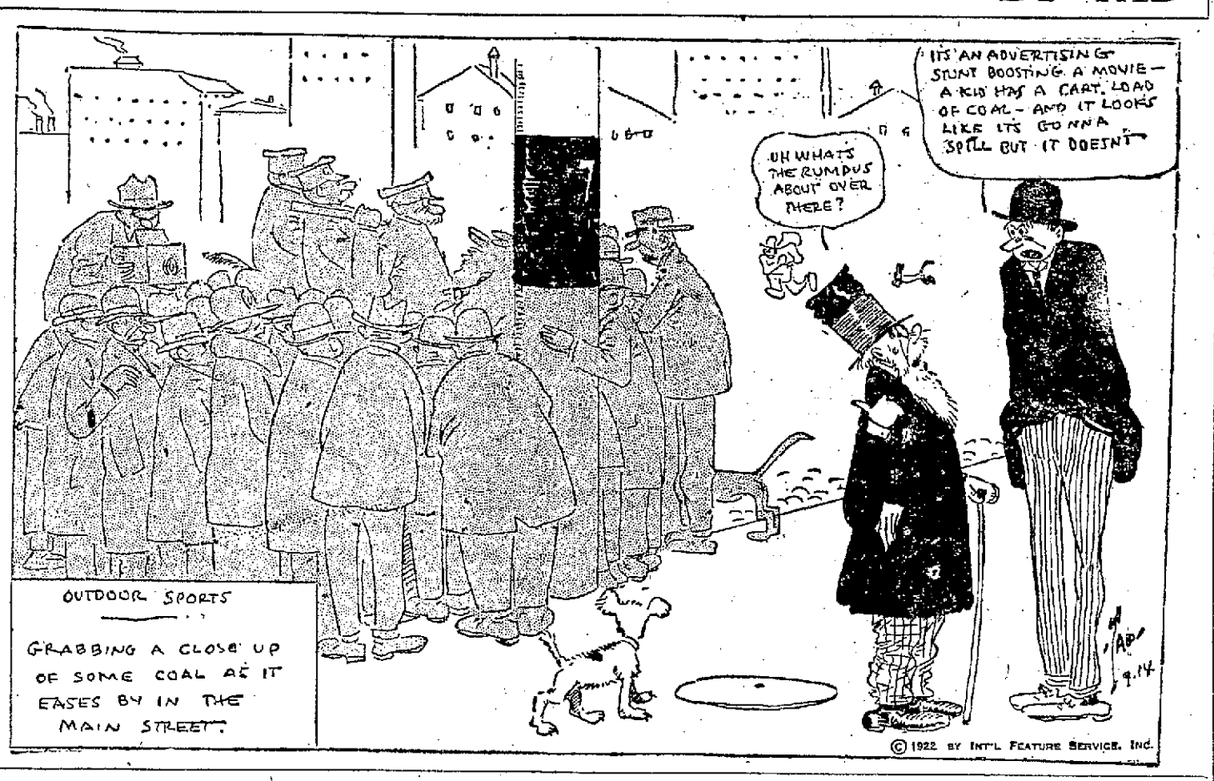

Those failing to pass the test are formed into swimming classes and take this as their work in the physical education department. The percentage failing this year is not higher than usual but probably lower.

Strangler Lewis Wins Tough Go From Mondt

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Strangler Lewis successfully defended his championship by taking two out of three falls in a wrestling match here with Joe Mondt last night. Mondt won the first fall.

OSHKOSH — Historical and archeological societies of Wisconsin will hold a convention here next summer, if plans of a local committee work out.

GREEN BAY, Wis.—The Delair Cafes of Green Bay created the only ripple in the state bowling tournament on Friday, when they registered 2,902 for eighth place in the five man event. The South Side Movers of Milwaukee registered 2,786.

The doubles and singles event closed with Friday's rolling. Hoyer and Donovan are the doubles champions of the state for 1923, with 1,268 and H. Bestler of Oshkosh grabs the singles honors with 697 mark. Jimmy Smith grabs off the all events mark with 1,961.

Only Green Bay teams roll on the final shift Saturday night. It is hardly likely that the Parkway alleys total of 2,995 will be disturbed.

Bongert and Mineck of Green Bay did the best work in the doubles on Friday with 1,186. Anderson of Green Bay cracked them for 649.

Roundy Says:

Wasn't The Score Of The Michigan Game Sweet Music To The Ears?

When Wisconsin beat Michigan at basketball it sure was swell reading in the paper. They have been having things their own way over there for a year and it looked during the early part of the basketball season that they would have their own way again.

* * *

I left for the bowling meet on a Monday and picked Michigan to win. I figured that on dope they should. I never knew until I got to Milwaukee that the Michigan team was torn to pieces with ineligibles and sickness—and when I saw that in the paper I said "Goodnight." They have lost Miller for the season, who no doubt is the greatest basketball player Michigan ever had and who stands about fourth highest scorer for the whole conference to date. Haggerty, the find of the season for Michigan, got out of a sick bed to play a few minutes in the last quarter.

* * *

It looks on paper that Michigan is done for the season with Miller out, but no doubt Haggerty will be able to play from now on. Even under these conditions I get it straight that it will take a good basketball team to beat old Michigan.

* * *

It was the first conference basketball game I have lost this season in my pickings. And I would love to lose a lot more if Wisconsin is on the winning end.

* * *

They say Rollie Williams knocked them off their seats at Michigan with floor work that the boys from the sticks over there never saw before. He simply made suckers out of them and time after time dribbled through the whole Michigan team, and his blocking near the basket was the berries, they say. Williams is the greatest guard the game of basketball ever saw—college, professional, amateur and all the territory that you can take in with that leather thing.

* * *

Dr. Meanwell sure gets a lot of credit for wining this game and the students and local fans sure loved that one victory above all. It was sweet news and the team is doing the greatest work this season that any other basketball team ever did at Wisconsin. Who ever on God's green earth figured Wisconsin would finish better than fifth this year? After watching that Butler and Marquette games—I for one figured fifth was a big rating for them.

* * *

You got to take your stiff caddy off to Dr. Meanwell, at this basketball stuff he is T-H-E-R-E—but of all basketball teams at Wisconsin that I have seen I never saw one that should get the credit this team should get. No man in the school or west can help but feel proud of Gibson, Williams, Tebell, Gage, Elsom, Spooner and Diebold.

* * *

Wisconsin has a bunch of hard games left and if we can win about 9 games and lose 3 they will have a wonderful season. Indiana has a powerful team right now and Chicago is getting stronger and Michigan and Purdue are real battles and if Wisconsin can plow through them with about only one more defeat then Wisconsin had the greatest season it ever enjoyed in basketball under the conditions.

* * *

Did you know that up till that Michigan game Wisconsin only had one player in the first 29 scores in the conference?

* * *

Purdue will defeat Illinois. Michigan will defeat Northwestern. Chicago will defeat Ohio. Indiana will defeat Minnesota.

* * *

You should have seen Miss Anderson, better known as (Joe) and Miss Beckner of the state capitol, when they rolled into second place in the state ladies' bowling meet. No indians ever lived who put on the war dance they staged on the alleys. A jazz band with those steps and their fortune was made. These two ladies hit the wood for 398 in that last game and picked up hard splits besides to get that count.

* * *

Mrs. Moss and Mrs. Barry got over 500 in the singles and prove that they are star lady bowlers. If you saw the smile on their faces you think they were a happy pair of school kids. They also staged a wardance.

* * *

Mrs. Bostad takes first place in the singles. The Madison shark hit that wood for 164—169—189 and with new pins and never in the history of the game did a woman lose strikes with ten perfect hits she sent in to the pocket pins 1 and 3. When she went into first place never a Wisconsin locomotive or rah-rah Wisconsin ever come close to making the noise the local Madison girls made in that Arcade bowling place. Every policeman within three blocks ran into the basement thinking that a wholesale murder was being committed but all they saw was pocketbooks, bowling bags, hats and galoshes flying around. That is the old pep, girls.

* * *

The Monona Lunch team had on all red blouses and the Madison team was declared to have the niftiest outfit that arrived at the whole state meet.

* * *

The local lady Elks had a team in the meet. It was hard to get the dope on them but this column will give them a skyrocket Monday night.

Badger Hockey Squad Loses Two Best Men

With two men ill and unable to compete, the Wisconsin hockey team plays its game with Marquette university under a severe handicap this afternoon. The contest begins at 2:30 on the lower campus rink.

Tom Tredwell goal-tender, and Bob Blodgett are not in condition. Coach A. K. Viner indicated that neither would be able to get into the contest and announced that Kubosch would play the goal position in place of Tredwell.

Shifts will be made in the line-up and Johnson will play defense in place of Blodgett while Moran goes to the wing position formerly held

Stage Is Set For Big Relay At University

Pi Kappa Alpha Relay Team Comes Within 1-5 Second Of Record

With the arrival of practically all competitors and the completion of elimination races, the stage is set for the 17th annual Wisconsin relay carnival in the gym annex today.

Time trials for elimination of fraternity teams were run off yesterday afternoon. The Pi Kappa Alpha team taking first place came within 1-5 of a second of breaking a 10 year-old record held by the D. U's. The usual practice of entering only six teams to compete on the final day was made impossible when two teams tied for sixth place and had to be considered.

The fraternity relays will be run off in three heats and five prizes will be awarded in this class.

While the entry list for normal schools is not large, the quality of and rivalry between the schools warrants certain interest. Beloit, Milton, Platteville, and Marquette are all entered in the meet and are bound to show much of the class and competition of the meet.

Five military academies are entered for competition and the presence of such teams as Culver and St. John's insures interesting competition.

In the high school class, the competition will be keenest between three Madison schools. Intense rivilary between Central, East and Wisconsin high schools reigns in every sport and attempts to settle many old scores will be made. Monticello high school has entered a relay team in the high school class and may show the Madison schools some speed.

The inter-sorority relay race, one of the most intersting of all events will take place as usual. Four prizes wil be given for this event.

An array of cups and medals to be given for various events has been placed in the window of the University pharmacy.

Following is a list of the awards: Fraternity relay, five cups and a travelling cup. Sorority relay, four cups. Academy relay, four gold medals and four silver medals for second places.

Big Ten Race Is Tightening Up; Pass Half Way Mark

K. C. Bowlers Will Meet Sunday To Talk "Tourney"

KNIGHTS of Columbus bowlers will meet in the club rooms Sunday morning at 10 o'clock to discuss plans for attending the K. C. national bowling tournament to be held in Milwaukee March 16 and 17.

The local Knights recently returned from the state meet at Green Bay and the K. C. state meet at Manitowoc.

About 20 teams are expected to attend the K. C. national meet at Milwaukee. All games will be rolled in a K. C. club house there.

All bowlers of the local club are expected to attend Sunday morning's meeting.

Superior Declines

Won't Sponsor Annual District Net Tourney; Ashland Gets It

JANESVILLE, Wis.—Superior normal school has declined to take the district elimination basketball tournament held by it for several years under the auspices of the Wisconsin Interscholastic Athletic association, Chairman Fred J. Hote, Edgerton, announced on Friday.

The meeting has been transferred to Ashland. The refusal was made after the division of the state into 16 instead of 10 districts. Superior normal, Mr. Hote said, refused to handle the meet where secondary schools were reaping any benefit.

They had an opportunity to either pay all the expenses of the eight teams or pay the local expenses and probate the rest until all other expenses were met and the balance of the receipts put into the normal school treasury. Several schools to which district meets were offered declined for the same reasons.

Yale And Harvard To Meet English This Year

Representatives of Yale and Harvard, at a meeting held in Cambridge, Massachusetts several days ago, accepted the challenge of Oxford and Cambridge universities for an international, intercollegiate track meet to be held in England this summer.

The event will be the sixth of its kind in which American universities have pitted their best athletes against those of England's two great schools. Immediately the decision was reached, a cablegram accepting the challenge was sent to B. G. D. Rudd, of Oxford, who was captain of the track squad from that university which visited this country several years ago.

International meets have proved so popular that the Harvard and Yale joint committee has suggested that the events be made a biennial classic. The plan proposes that the meets be held alternately in England and America. If Oxford and Cambridge agree on this point, the next meet will be held in America in 1925.

This year's meet will be held in the Stadium at Wembly, a suburb of London. The new stadium which will be completed in April, will have a seating capacity of 100,000 persons. July 14 and 21 have been suggested as dates for the meet, but neither of these are certain. Tentative sailing arangements have been made for the American athletes and their coaches.

Badgers In Bad Condition For Game Wtih Team Like Wolverines

Wisconsin basketball men, who continue to practice for their all-important tilt with Michigan on Monday, will enter the game in a delapidated conditinn. Captain Gus Tebell and Les Gage have both been on the sick list since the game last Wednesday and are confined to their beds.

Rollie Williams is troubled with an old injury to his leg received during the football season, and was sent to the shower early last evening because of his limping.

GAMES TONIGHT
Illinois at Purdue.

The trip to Michigan was the hardest taken by a Wisconsin basketball team for some years, and the charging of Cappon in the Michigan game left the Badger men in a rather bruised condition. The team will not have a decent practice before they again test their strength with the Wolverine quint.

With every team passing the halfway mark, the Big Ten basketball race is tightening up and four games played tonight will have an important bearing on final results.

All of the quintets except Indiana have been under fire in at least six contests. The Hoosiers are warming up to their schedule gradually. In the last part of the season they play five games during the nine-day period between March 5 and 14.

Iowa, which appears to be speeding merrily along to a Big Ten title, in reality has engaged in only one hard game. The Hawkeyes real test will come when they clash with Michigan for the second time on February 26 and with Indiana in two battles still on the card. Indiana is good enough to upset any team in the Conference and it would be no surprise if the Hoosiers cleaned up in at least one of their games with Iowa.

Either Illinois or Purdue will be eliminated from championship consideration when the fives stack up at Lafayette tonight. Illinois has dropped three contests and at best could hardly be expected to finish on the top run.

Coach Ruby's men have shown steady improvement while Purdue plays an erratic game. The Boilermakers beat Wisconsin, 17 to 13, but lost to Indiana, 31 to 26, which had previously fallen before the Badgers. If Purdue loses, it can be scratched from further consideration and put in the "dark horse" class with Illinois. If it wins, it keeps pace with Michigan and remains a contender for the gonfalon.

Coach Mather's Michigan team clashes with Northwestern in the Evanston gym. Although the Wolverines should win, they will be forced to travel at top speed all of the time and consequently will be weakened for their game with Wisconsin here on Monday night. Mather has run into a streak of hard luck.

His renovated team is forced to play five games in eleven days. With two regulars, Miller and Birks, leaving holes in the defense and offense, the coach has had to call upon reserves to keep Michigan in the race. Kipke played forward against Wisconsin. Haggerty will probably replace Piper in the game with the Purple.

Report for February 17, 1923

Wheat Prices Take Spurt at Early Session

(By the Associated Press)

CHICAGO — Fresh upturns in the price of wheat took place today during the early dealings, the chief factor being, absence of any renewal of heavy selling. Besides, weather conditions in the winter wheat belt acted as a handicap to sellers. Commission houses were the principal buyers. The opening which ranged from ⅛ to ¼@⅝ cents higher with May 1.20¼ to 1.20½ and July 1.16⅛ to 1.16¼ was followed by a slight reaction but then the market rallied again.

Subsequently, resumption of selling on the part of houses with eastern connections led to a temporary downward swing in prices. The close was unsettled ⅝c net lower to ¼c advance, May 1.19⅞@1.20 and July 1.15⅝ to 1.15⅞.

CORN — Corn and oats were firmer with wheat. After opening ¼ to ⅜ up, May 75¼ to 75⅜ the corn market scored a little further upturn, before beginning to react.

OATS — Oats started ⅛c off to ⅜c advance, May 46¼ to 46⅜ and later held near to the initial range.

Speculative buying upheld the corn market when wheat displayed weakness. Corn closed unsettled ⅝ @1½ to ⅞@⅞c net higher with May 75⅝ to 75⅞@⅞.

PROVISIONS—Provisions showed a little strength with grain despite lower quotations on hogs.

Stock Market Prices Higher; Steel Is Up

(By the Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Opening prices in today's stock market were irregular but the main tendency appeared upward. Baldwin receded fractionally on profit-taking but United States Steel and Studebaker moved to higher ground. Renewed buying of the copper shares sent Kennecott to 42, a new high mark for the year. Peak prices also were established by Du Pont and General Motors. Railway Steel Spring, Royal Dutch and American Beet Sugar were heavy. Realizing sales caused recessions of approximately a point in California Petroleum, U. S. Alcohol and Atlantic Guf but the general list continued upward. Baldwin recovered its early loss and duplicated yesterday's high of 141½. Good buying power was noted in the merchandising, motor, accessory and equipment groups, gains of a point or more being recorded by May Department Stores, Brown Shoe, Lima Locomotive, New York Air Brake, Inspiration Copper and Crucible Steel. Rails also were in better demand, Louisville and Nashville and Ann Arbor Pfd. gaining a point each, and New York Central, Reading and Norfolk and Western recording large fractional gains. Foreign exchanges were irregular, demand sterling holding steady around $4.60, the year's best price, and French francs dropping five points to 5.95 cents.

The closing was irregular. Sales approximated 700,000 shares.

Deaf To Hear By Radio If Device Works

London Man Preparing Box To Transmit Sounds To Nerves

The radio will fill a great need in America if the invention of a Londener works out as planned. His device will permit deaf people to hear by radio.

This Londener, S. G. Brown, has invented what he calls an occiphone.

The invention consists of a small rectangular box, the greater part of which is taken up by an electromagnet, with an iron bar between the poles. The bar is such that it can be made to vibrate when the slight impulses of Radio are sent through the magnet.

Extending from the magnet and bar is a key with an ebonite knob. When the instrument is connected to the phone switches of a Radio receiving set a deaf person can hear the concert merely by placing his knuckles against the knob.

When it is desired to hear another person in the same room a transmitting instrument, called an "aural box," is used in connection with the ossiphone. The aural box is connected through a set of dry cells to the ossiphone. Speech entering the aural box can be heard in the same way broadcast sounds are heard, through the ossiphone.

Brazilian Stallion Gets Permit For Service

WASHINGTON — A concession to install and operate, for a period of 45 years, Radiotelegraph and Radiotelephone stations for international communication has been granted the Sociedad Anonyma Agencia Americana, a Brazilian news agency.

The concession includes the operation of Radiotelephone stations for communication within the national territory but excludes Radiotelegraphy in that field.

Skaters Waltz To Music Over Wireless Telephone

TORONTO, Can. — At Withrow Park rink, here, a crowd of about 100 skated to waltzes and fox trots broadcast by The Toronto Star's Radio station CFCA, and received by the well-known white Radio car with the stave-pipe aerial.

"Here she comes," some boys shouted; immediately the white truck hove into sight. Everybody seemed to recognize it at once, although there had been no advance announcement that the car would be used in this way.

ILLINOIS BOASTS TWO REAL D. A. R.

Mrs. Lucinda Porter, on top, and Mrs. Josephine Wodetzki.

Incredible as it may appear Illinois shelters two women whose fathers were soldiers of the American Revolution. They are believed to be the last now living with this extraordinary distinction. Mrs. Lucinda Porter of Lawrenceville who is 87 years of age, and Mrs. Josephine Wodetzki of Lincoln aged 93, have the right to be termed real daughters of the American revolution. Both are honorary members of the D. A. R.

Tobacco Notes.

The weather has been too cold for delivery of tobacco at Stoughton during the week, only an occasional crop being brought in for storing or shipping. There will be a rush on when milder weather arrives. Many leaf growers will be in Madison from this section on Monday, when the pool case comes up before Judge Stevens in the circuit court. Whether the decision will be one way or the other, the case will be carried up, according to the best information obtainable. Walter Mabbett of Edgerton has resigned as head grader for the pool and no one has been appointed in his place. W. B. Wentworth is doing the grading in the southern tier of counties. The Edgerton Tobacco Reporter says: "The conditions in the northern market are more or less upset by the inauguration of legal action of the pool against M. H. Bekkedal & Son, restraining them from accepting tobacco offered for sale by dissatisfied pool members. There are those among them who are holding back deliveries until the injunction proceedings shall have been finally settled. Whether the court rules one way or the other, the conflict now on has elements in it which are pregnant with possibilities of a long drawn out campaign, the outcome of which will be watched with the keenest interest, not only in Wisconsin but throughout the country.

From the New York Tobacco Leaf—"How much leaf tobacco business will be transacted next week is questionable. It will not be a week of record sales for the simple reason that there is a marked scarcity of most every type of cigar leaf tobacco. It is true, too, that most substantial factories are well supplied with materials and have no need now to place very big orders. However, the quantities of leaf disposed of in individual sales cannot be large—even the aggregate cannot be very large—nevertheless the number of transactions will probably be greater than in any one week during the past year."

Buying weed in Pennsylvania, is the report, and word comes that "There have been more buyers in the field this week than at any time during the buying season. Local as well as country packers are out buying such crops as appeal to them in quality and price. Prices for the 1922 tobacco remain firm with no visible chance for a drop. A packer, to realize any profit on his investment, must get at least 25 per cent more for his packing than in 1921.

STREET ASSESSMENT NOTICE

Office of the Board of Public Works, Madison, Wisconsin, Feb. 16, 1923.

The Common Council of the City of Madison having heretofore decided that it was expedient and necessary that the streets hereinafter named be improved by grading, paving and otherwise improving the same at the expense of the property benefited thereby and having further ordered, that we view the premises and determine the benefits and damages that would accrue to each parcel of real estate by reason of said improvements, and the amounts that should be assessed to each parcel benefited, and the amount allowed to each parcel damaged by such improvements,

Now, therefore notice is hereby given that in pursuance of said orders, plans and specifications have been prepared by the City Engineer for said improvements on the following named streets and alleys, viz:

Alley, block ten (10), Bowen's Addition.
Baltzell Street, from Monroe Street to Gregory Street.
Gregory Street, from Baltzell Street to Pickford Street.
Clark Street, from Van Hise Avenue to Chamberlain Avenue.

Why Not

Let the good wife sing, and children play
Around your home
The livelong day.
And pay for it in such a way
That "day by day"
With joy you'll say,
A little more each day I own.

Since last June eleven homes near East Side High School have been bought on the monthly payment plan through this office. We still have fourteen more in the same district, of which ten are less than four years old, and some only two years. They are modern, well arranged and consist of five, six, seven and eight rooms, and most of them can be handled with $500 payment down.

We Also Have To Offer

7 room modern house on Morrison srteet, lake shore lot, $9,000.
6 room modern new house on Marquette street, living room finished in oak, garage, cement driveway, lot 40x120. Price $6,7000.
7 room modern Brittingham Place. Tile and stucco. Finished in oak. Steam heat. Fire place. Garage and street paid for. $9,500.
7 room not wholly modern house on Atwood avenue. A good house on a fine large lot, with bathroom, but no tub. No furnace. Price $5,500. $500 down.

College Hills

8 rooms, Very modern. New. Birch and ivory enamel finish. Beautiful fire place. Hot water heat. Extra lavatory on first floor. Lot 100x120. Price $10,500. Good terms.
I also have desirable flat buildings, some paying as high as 14%.
I also have a desirable business corner on Butler and East Main streets, comprising two stores and flats above and vacant lot adjoining.

Good Apartment Site

Facing East Gorham street, running back to lake. Can be divided.

Six Apartment Building

One of the best apartment buildings in the city. Brick construction. Very modern.

Four Apartment Building

Our Saturday Open Letters

TO ERIC MILLER, WEATHER FORECASTER

Dear Eric: Have a heart, Eric, have a heart. You made a fine record this winter. Just think of giving us a January without zero weather. That was fine of you, Eric. But now you spoil the whole thing by losing your head and turning Wisconsin into an area that makes us look like a bunch of igloo dwellers. Turn this blast off, Eric.

TO CAPITAL TIMES SUBSCRIBERS

Dear Subscribers: There are about 60 boys who deliver The Capital Times each night. In these days when colds and grippe are laying heavily on people we have the normal number of grippe casualties among our boys. Until this epidemic is over please be patient if you do not receive your paper as promptly as usual. Ten of our boys were sick yesterday. If you do not receive you paper by 6 o'clock please notify the office, Badger 2200, and a paper will be sent to you.

TO JOHN BULL

Dear John: Congratulations, John. You certainly do know how to drive a bargain. You do the clever bargaining and we pay. Of course, you have some able aids in this country who have considerable influence at Washington. By the way, John, how much help did J. Pierpont Morgan give you in making this settlement?

TO J. B. OLSON, CHIROPRACTOR

Dear J. B.: We notice that a bill has again been introduced in the legislature to put the chiropractors out of business. If we can be of any help to you, call on us, J. B.

TO KING TUTENKHAMAN

Dear King: Welcome back, king. We sympathize with you in your displeasure over these snooping Englishmen who have disturbed your sleep of 3,000 years. But, king, you made the mistake of having yourself buried in the midst of riches and gold and precious stones. In these days when the big powers are demanding the right to protect Christians in countries where oil is to be found, small wonder that a person buried in treasures of gold can expect to be undisturbed.

TO GOV. BLAINE

Dear John: The way to abolish militarism is to abolish it. Whether the national guard should be abolished entirely or not is a question for debate. But one thing is certain. The state of Wisconsin has been spending too much money for state military purposes. Too much money has been spent on the national guard. The establishment should be cut and the appropriations be decreased.

TO HOLLYWOOD, CAL.

Dear Hollywood: Divorce stories are coming out of Hollywood just a trifle too fast for the good of the motion picture business. Wanda Hawley is the latest. The trouble at Hollywood is that too many mediocre people have had sudden riches thrust upon them and they can't stand prosperity. The picture colony on the coast should come down to earth.

TO PAUL STARK AND SAM MALKUCH

Dear Paul and Sam: You fellows ought to pay excess rent for the use of the handball courts at the Y. M. C. A. No chance to get the ball back to the wall when it has to get by the height and width of your ponderous forms. You need a gridiron not a handball court. But then, you certainly are agile for fellows of your size. See you at the Y next Tuesday.

A Thought

Study to show thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the world of truth.—2 Tim. 2:15.

The pleasure a man of honor enjoys in the consciousness of having performed his duty is a reward he pays himself for all his pains.—La Bruyere.

Helen Bulovsky Lawrence, Friend of Mankind

WHILE hell and death and carnage were stalking along the trenches on the Flanders front in the recent war, a young Madison girl was numbered among those unsung heroes of the conflict who ministered daily to the poor fellows who were brought shattered and bleeding and dying from No Man's land. Those kindly angels who, with willing hands and loving hearts, worked day and night to bring relief to fevered brows and suffering bodies, will forever have the affection and kindliest remembrances of the boys who went over there.

In the recent war, Helen Bulovsky did more than her bit. With a body that was small but with hands that were efficient and willing and a heart that was big and loving, Miss Bulovsky stood in the range of fire day after day and night after night while giving first aid to the poor fellows who were dragged out of the trenches in the delirium of injury and gas and approaching death.

It is related of Miss Bulovsky that she stood for 12 hours at a time, wearing rubber boots which sank ankle deep in the Flanders mud, while assisting the overworked army surgeons who were giving first aid to the most desperate cases. Could any test be greater for a young girl, still in her early twenties, who but a few years before was in the graduating class of the Madison high school?

Miss Bulovsky was one of those rare souls who radiated cheerfulness and happiness wherever she appeared. An infectious laugh that could not be resisted has brought sunshine into many hospitals and sick rooms in this city. She enjoyed bringing happiness to others. Her kindliness was not bestowed with regard to rank. She was as solicitous and tender of the most neglected person in a crowded ward as she was of the person having the means to retain a special room and a special nurse.

The Capital Times takes this occasion to pay tribute to one of God's noble women. Too often do we chronicle the deeds of valor and doings of those who are known to the front page. Too seldom do we bring deserved praise to those silent benefactors of mankind who tread noiselessly and quietly on their missions of mercy and love. Who serves mankind in greater degree than does the trained nurse?

It seems incredible that Helen Bulovsky Lawrence, only a few days ago laughing, radiant, cheerful, is suddenly stricken. It is not for us to say why a young woman still in the mid-twenties and in the fullness of her ability to serve mankind should be summoned. It is God's will.

The world is poorer today because Helen Bulovsky Lawrence is gone. There are hospital corridors and sick rooms in Madison that will miss the sunny disposition of the little nurse. In the short span of life that was allotted her, she leaves a heritage of service to mankind that should bring comfort to those who are left to mourn her early passing.

Questions and Answers

Dane County League of Women Voters to Conduct Column of Questions and Answers Each Saturday on Public Matters; Will Endeavor to Bring About Education in Citizenship.

Q.—What and where is the Isle of Pines? Who owns it and how is it governed?

A.—Questions concerning the Isles of Pines can best be answered by relating its geographical and historical story.

From a Cuban census, under American auspices, an explanation is given thus: "The Isles of Pines, with an area of 840 square miles, is in effect two islands, connected by a marsh, the northern being somewhat broken by hills, the southern lying low, flat and sandy."

The location of the Isle is in Cuban waters, a little more than fifty miles from Batabano, the original Havana, settled in 1515. The Cuban people in locating the island mention it as lying less than a hundred miles south of Cuba, from which it is separated by a stretch of shallow water dotted with coral keys. A traveler who visited the island wrote regarding this intervening area, "One might almost walk and wade from Cuba to the Isle of Pines, so numerous are the keys and so shallow the waters." The people of the island go beyond that and declare that cattle have actually made the trip on foot.

It might be presumed that this island, a stepping stone of Cuba, were peacefully sheltered under her protecting shadow, and could be of interest to the United States only as a picturesque point of visitation. The Isle of Pines has been burdened with an unsettled fate ever since the conclusion of the Spanish American War.

The uncertainty of its status has rested upon a claim of ownership by the United States, a claim based upon a clause of the peace treaty which in ceding Porto Rico and all land in Porto Rican waters, employed the ambiguous phrase, and other islands now under Spanish sovereignity in the West Indies." Appearing as the phrase does, there was no question left as to the cession of land in Porto Rican waters but beyond that, the issue turned upon this proposition, did the Spanish commissioners intend to cede any West Indian Islands other than those located in Porto Rican waters?

This lack of specification resulted in placing the temporary guardianship of the Isle under Cuba, "pending negotiations." Although the island was by deed of transfer left in care of the de facto government, of this there was practically none, and the people were left with no de facto American authority but under Cuban officials, all of whom supposed they were with the new Cuban government. The Cuban flag was hoisted over public buildings and the Pineros, as the inhabitants of the Isle of Pines are called conscientiously, as they thought, celebrated in feasting and rejoicing over Cuban independence

This anomalous ownership, has however, been the cause of much concern on the part of Americans who desired to exploit the island. The chief point of the situation resulted in a condition, that a foreign government administered in an area in which the United States claimed ownership.

"Politically, geographically, and legally by centuries of racial affiliations," wrote Abert G. Robinson, in an article in the Independent, "the Isle of Pines belongs to Cuba as Nantucket does to the United States."

Although this mooted ownership received federal attention in the United States in a spasmodic fashion shortly after the period of the Spanish American conflict, the question was left pigeon-holed in a senate committee room for eighteen years. A revival of the old-time subject has resulted since the Isle of Pines treaty with Cuba was brought into government light, Dec. 6, 1922.

The treaty, submitted last to the senate by President Roosevelt, emerged from retirement to be reported upon by the Foreign Relations Committee upon the request of Secretary of State Hughes.

The treaty which relinquishes any claim of the United States to the Isle of Pines, was reported upon favorably by the the Foreign Relations Committee. Its ratification has been much opposed in the past by Americans having investments in the island. The treaty when negotiated was an attempt to settle the island's status, but its importance to American investment has lulled the matter to rest for nearly two decades. It becomes a question of interest, therefore, to see in what respects the island has sufficient value to make it a desirable possession.

As all save a half dozen or so of the some hundreds of islands in Cuban waters are practically worthless, one with possibilities of development deserves a general description.

The Isle of Pines has possibilities for products, in general like those of the main island, Cuba. Mineral springs and a marble quarry add to its value. As a strategic point or naval base, however, without vast expense in harbor improvements, the Isle of Pines presents no value. It is of unusual interest to note that the pine tree of temperate climate associates in abundance with trees native to the tropics. Yet it is not the pines which give character to the landscape but rather the palms which follow the lines of the natural water courses. The forests of pine, mahogany, and cedar clamber of the hilly portion of the island.

The Isle has the advantage of being the center of the sponge industry. The shallows and the keys supply much "sea-wool," as a noted visitor calls the sponges. The distance from Cuba when taken by boat, is circuitous in route because of these keys which it has been said should "serve to keep the natives in and the rest of the world out."

It is not strange that many Americans have advocated its annexation to the United States for they have preempted many of the forest lands, and have planted much of the plain to oranges, bananas, and pineapples in anticipation of the time when their lumber and fruit could be shipped without duty to American ports.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

For Chiropractors

Beaver Dam Says Benfey Bill Is to Strangle New Science of Healing.

[To the Editor]—Associated Press dispatches from Madison described a bill, known as the "Basic Practice" Bill, which the public should be made acquainted with as it is class legislation.

This bill was introduced by Senator Benfey of Sheboygan and sponsored presumably by the American Medical Association in their nation-wide attempt to exterminate chiropractic.

It is believed that this is but one of the links in a mighty chain of effort to exterminate chiropractors because it has lately come to our notice that similar bills are being introduced in Iowa, Minnesota, Illinois and other states, presumably in the interest of public health, but ostensibly for no other purpose than to strangle chiropractic.

The public is fast becoming aware of the merits of chiropractic and the fact that this new science is growing in favor without playing any favorites, standing solidly on their own merits, should be sufficient proof of its right to go on without hindrance.

It is a new departure in the healing art and should not be subject to the old orthodox dictatorial policies or ruled and governed by men who are not versed in this science and who are now even in sympathy with this mode of procedure.

Would a skilled plumber be a fit person, even though a Yale graduate, to examine a medical doctor?

Standard schools of chiropractic require for admittance a high school education or its equivalent and are given a thorough course of 4,000 hours in Anatomy, Physiology, Symptomatology, Hygiene, Chemistry, Orthopedia and the Philosophy, science and art of chiropractic.

The results men thus trained are able to obtain in treating diseased condition is proof of the merits of this method.

It has never yet been proven that a competent chiropractor has done harm by adjusting the spine, and that he can do untold good is manifest by the increased following as the years go by.

We are anxious to have every chiropractor examined by a board of men who are qualified and then let the public choose their own method of healing. We will abide by their decision, but will not submit to dictation by any prejudiced class.

A teacher at a medical school is bound to be influenced by his associations.—Clarence D. Hotchkiss, D. C., Beaver Dam, Wis.

ADVISORY AND FINANCIAL COMMITTEE OF MEN

[To the Editor]—In the last issue of the "Forward," the official voice of the League of Women Voters, is found a statement by Mrs. Ayer, the newly appointed state chairman of finance. Mrs. Ayer advocates and is keenly interested in the formation of an advisory and financial committee of men representatives of the entire state. We infer that the purpose of this committee would be to aid and to pilot the league over its rough and rocky road to "success."

The league cannot conscientiously be a neutral organization as far as candidates are concerned, and be advised and financed by any coterie of men in the state.

Since the league is non-party and has no ax to grinde, it can more efficiently foster the right kind of legislation and cultivate liberal thought in the state. The league should never play with politics, but should remember that its purpose is to educate. A good bill should be a good bill to the league on its merits and not because some political party fosters it.

If the state officers are going to tie their hands by placing the league in the control of an advisory and financial committee of men, any observer of the League of Women Voters can plainly see the handwriting on the wall. Success is likely to be "spilled" instead of being spelled with capital letters as it should be.

New York and Boston tried this scheme, and according to the statements of national officers at the convention in Baltimore, it proved a flat failure. The experiment resulted in the defeat of the aims of the league.—A Member of the League.

HIGH COST OF OWNING

[To the Editor]—I am surprised that the people of Madison and The Capital Times, a progressive newspaper, have not found out that in most cities of 3,000 inhabitants that any desirable residence that is worth $2,500, it is cheaper to rent it than to own it. And when it comes to building for a man that is working for $4 or $5 per day it is simply out of the question. And you ask any of these wage earners why and they will tell you it is the damned capitalist that wants everything.

I think our federal, state, county and city taxes or government is to blame for the existing conditions.

As to the difference between renting and owning, any one with a lead pencil can figure that out. Interest on money invested, taxes, insurance, depreciation, and upkeep is something awful. I had one room decorated in my house, 14x12, and it cost me $35. At that rate a seven room house decorated every two or three years, or very two years, would be $10 a month and the outside would cost the same in proportion.

Now this is no new thing, it has been this way for the last five years and is getting worse.

And the same thing applies to the farms of the country. I know of some farms that are taxed more than their owners can get off the farms. The owner might better give it away, but who will he give it to.

I would like to write an article on what in my opinion is the trouble with the country, but I am afraid it would be thrown in the waste basket, so will let the people find out for themselves, and that will be many a long day, for the politicians come around and tell the people one thing and to put them in office and they will fix things, when they know absolutely that they will not be able to do anything, but they come right back and tell the voters the same old story, and they fall for it just the same as ever.—G. B. Stannard, Lake Geneva, Wis.

YES, GAREY'S ELECTION WAS A BITTER PILL FOR THE GAZETTE

[To the Editor:] The editor of the Janesville Gazette does not seem to be able to reconcile himself to the recent state and district elections according to the following fling taken in a week end editorial:

"Senator Garey in writing of himself says he is a trained economist. He ought then to have little trouble in living two years on his $500 salary."

If The Gazette's candidate for state senator had been elected, he would have received the same salary as Senator Garey does; would he not?

Sounds like the spiteful remark of a jealous woman when she found she had been left off the guest list of another woman's party that "she wouldn't go to that old party, anyway, if she had received an invitation."

Cheer up, Gazette editor! Wisconsin won't go to ruin even if the stalwarts have been backed off the boards and the Simmons bed people do leave us.

Your remark about Senator Garey's salary sounds like a bad case of sour grapes to—Edgerton.

Telling It To Congress

From The Congressional Record

Without any intention whatever of comparing the committee (Judiciary) to frogs, still its conduct (in Daugherty investigation) sometimes reminds me of a doggerel about those creatures:

What a wonderful bird the frog are!
When he sit he stand almost.
When he hop he fly almost;
He ain't got no tail hardly, either;
When he sit, he sit on what he ain't got almost.

—Rep. Thomas (D.), Ky.

FARM EXPERT

Last yeat a man who has been the manager of the Hotel La Salle in Chicago, who was not raised on a farm, who, perhaps, did not know whether a potato grew under the ground or on a tree, was delegated by the budget director to revise the estimates which were prepared by the experts of the Agricultural Department.—Senator Harrison (D.), Miss.

WINTER

Winter has beauty all her own,
An ermine mantel around her thrown.

Her trees with countless brilliants gemmed,
Her hedges glistening, silver hemmed.

Her fields a calm of peaceful sight
Beneath a counterpane of white.

The hills a crown of glory wear,
Flashing the silence that is there.

Wherever winter's tent is pitched
Something with beauty is enriched.

Upon the humblest twigs and stems
She pins her priceless diadems.

With dignity she sits her throne,
Sure of a beauty all her own.

Poems That Live

THE DAYS THAT ARE NO MORE

Tears, idle tears, I know not what they mean,
Tears from the depth of some divine despair
Rise in the heart, and gather to the eyes,
In looking on the happy autumn fields,
And thinking of the days that are no more.

Fresh as the first beam glittering on a sail,
That brings our friends up from the underworld,
Sad as the last which reddens over one
That sinks with all we love below the verge;
So sad, so fresh, the days that are no more.

Ah, sad and strange as in dark summer dawns,
The earliest pipe of half-awakened birds
To dying ears, when into dying eyes
The casement slowly grows a glimmering square;
So sad, so strange, the days that are no more.

Dear as remembered kisses after death,
And sweet as those by hopeless fancy feigned
On lips that are for others; deep as love,
Deep as first love and wild with all regret;
Oh, death in life! the days that are no more.

—Tennyson.

There's nothing that grows
In the suburbanites' garden,
If eaten at all,
Will his arteries harden.

When a man is dyspepic he's often a skeptic.

The clarity of water is no sign of its purity.

There's many a funeral to the credit of the old oaken bucket.

Fruits and nuts and garden truck, eat of these and you'll have good luck.

Microbes shun the dry, polished, hardwood floor, while carpets harbor billions.

There is no natural immunity against a disease, protection must be secured through artificial immunization of the susceptible.

The control of diphtheria does not depend upon sanitation; the disease is spread through contact of healthy carriers with susceptible persons.

In a child, immune to diphtheria, the antitoxin is normally present in his blood. The susceptible child is not so protected.

Three English physicians recently Shick tested 329 children. One hundred and nine were susceptible to diphtheria and eighteen were healthy carriers of the germ.

When hookworms are busy their victims are are not.

A Thought

He that leadeth into captivity shall go into captivity: he that killeth with the sword must be killed with the sword. Here is the patience and the faith of the saints. Rev. 13:9.

Nohing is more common than for great thieves to ride in triumph when small ones are punished. But let wickedness escape as it may at the law, it never fails of doing itself justice; for every guilty person is his own hangman.—Seneca.
